

ANNUAL MEETING

Report of the North Farmington Cemetery Auxilliary

The North Farmington Cemetery Auxilliary held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Charles Hejker on Tuesday, April 18, with a good attendance. The following officers were elected:

Pres.—Mrs. Ella Irish
First V. P.—Miss Eva Wixom
Second V. P.—Mrs. Eda Soule
Sec'y.—Miss Libbie Kyle
Treas.—Miss May Walstead

The society is prospering, the treasurer reporting $172 in the treasury.

The society presented the president with three dozen carnations, the secretary with a signet hat pin and the treasurer a handsome back comb. The presentations were made by the retiring vice president, Mrs. Grace Halstead, in her usual graceful manner.

Town Needs a Water System

The need of a water system was quite fully demonstrated Wednesday morning. With plenty of water and a few hundred feet of fire hose the Payne house would probably be standing today with only slight damage. Conditions were also excellent for a sweeping fire as the wind was in the right direction to carry the burning embers right over the congested business district. Thanks to the rainfall that wet the roofs the fire was confined to the building in which it started.

With the installation of electric lights this summer Farmington will lack only a system of water works to make it complete for an ideal residence town. Having an excellent sewer system the work is half done, and, as we understand that this year will wipe out the last of the sewer bonds and that there is no other indebtedness, it looks as though the voters would soon see their way clear to complete the job by adding water to the other municipal utilities that go to make life pleasant and business profitable.

Additional Locals

Mrs. Lucy Durfee and mother, Mrs. Allen, were Sunday callers at the home of L. C. Philbrick.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Edwards spent Easter in Detroit, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Follette.

Mrs. Inez Prindle left Newark, O., Monday morning for Valdosta, Ga., to spend the summer with her uncle, C. S. Bennett.

Lewis Philbrick, who has been poorly for so long, does not gain as fast as his friends would like to see him.

The school board has secured the services of Mrs. Lillian Ambler of Northville for grammar teacher for next year. Miss Ethel McVean, who has this department this year, intends to spend next year at the Ypsilanti state normal.

Tuesday afternoon about half past one the ringing of the fire bell brought out the citizens in quick order. Willing hands soon had the chemical and the ladder truck under motion and the blaze, which was in the north end of the Methodist church sheds, was soon extinguished. Burning grass had started the trouble, but the damage was very slight.

City Will Grow This Way Rapidly

The fact that the Detroit Lumber company has already secured a site on Grand River avenue at the junction of the Belt Line railroad is a pointer to what can be expected to follow out in this direction. It is only a fore-runner of what is to come. Factories will soon secure all of the available locations along the Belt Line road and that means that the city will be extended to include that territory. Anybody can guess the benefit to the suburban towns out this way.

Redford

H. C. Burgess of Detroit, was a Redford visitor Sunday.

Mrs. Kcough of Toronto, is a guest at the Presbyterian parsonage.

Rev. Davey, the Methodist pastor, baptized two at Elm last Sunday.

Mrs. Dudley, living a mile south of the village, is reported to be quite ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Suckery are now closely domiciled in their home on the farm.

Miss Louise Glave of Bay City, is calling on Redford relatives and friends this week.

Miss Kathryn Evans delightfully entertained a number of friends Easter Monday at a fitch party.

C. E. Beardslee went to Mt. Clemens Thursday to take the baths in the hope of being relieved from rheumatism.

The motion picture show drew a fair-sized house last Saturday night and opinion as to its merits are quite varied.

Miss May Lewis, accompanied by a friend from Pike's Peak, Mich., were the guests of Chattie and Bessie Reid Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Laing are enjoying a visit from Mrs. Laing's sister, Mrs. D. N. Styles, who is accompanied by her son, Emerson.

Word received from Rev. Coverdale states that he arrived safely in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Coverdale and son, Robert, left here Thursday to join him.

The melodious whistle of James Cooley, R. F. D. carrier No. 2, is once more heard in the land, as Jim is back on regular duty again.

A dance will be given next week Friday night at the Maccabee hall in Bell Branch by the order. A supper will be served and a general invitation is extended. Bill, son, Miss Marene Rause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Ramsey, has been engaged to teach the third grade in the Northville school next year.

The Redford Improvement Co. are going to set out a lot of trees on their subdivision. This is a very sensible move on the part of the company and their example could be followed with profit by others about the village.

Tuesday a couple of revenue collectors dropped off here and visited several business places with the result that a couple of saloonkeepers were invited to visit Detroit and explain why they were careless in effacing some revenue stamps on empty liquor receptacles.

Two christenings took place at the Presbyterian church on Easter Sunday, two sweet little girls receiving the rites, Marguerite Anita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. V. Sherman, and Alice Elizabeth, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. F. Holcomb of Farmington. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Santer were received into membership.
