ADHESIVE PLASTER USEFUL

It is invaluable to Mend Rubber Goods, Cover Cuts and Bruises and for Other Purposes.

A spool of good adhesive plaster is worth its weight in gold in the home, both as a means of saving the housekeeper's time and as a general repairer. Secure the best grade of non-irritating adhesive used for surgical purposes. It is comparatively inexpensive and comes in different widths. Either warm it before applying or pass a warm iron over it after it is in place.

I have found it invaluable to mend rubber goods of all kinds, but water bags, garden hoses, mackintoshes, gloves, handbags, and to replace the worn heel linings of my shoes, thus saving both pain and money. It furnishes an ever ready waterproof covering for cuts and bruises, and may be used to hold dressings in place. It is an ideal substance with which to mend corsets, repairing breaks or holding protruding steels back in place. It may also be used to stop cracks and to exclude light and air to make fumigation more thorough. A tight bandage of it will mend a splintered handle or chair leg. Apply it to the under side of a rug that curls or is torn and see how nicely it remedies the trouble. It makes excellent labels for fruit or jelly, as the back may be lettered with ink and it is the most thing imaginable with which to fasten a mail or express package—and this isn't a title of its uses. —Woman's Home Companion.

Dubious Work.

More than thirty years ago, when Colonel Frobel of Atlanta was called on to gaze the water in a neighboring stream, he one day had an amusing encounter with an old farmer who came along on a wood cart drawn by an ox.

When he reached the colonel, he stepped the cart, and inquired, peremptorily:

"What on earth are them men doin' there?"

"They are trying to find out how many bucketfuls of water run down this creek in 24 hours," said the colonel.

"Mister, are that a true fact?" asked the farmer.

"Yes, that's just what it is," said the colonel.

"Well, mister," said the old man, in a tone of much disapproval and anxiety, "it might be all right, but it do appear to me such doin's are on-constitutional." — Youth's Companion.

Rhodes' Art Fad.

Although Cecil Rhodes was a busy man he got time for a certain amount of reading. He made it a rule, although very fond of good pictures, never to buy any for fear of developing a craze for collecting works of art; with all his wealth he felt that he could not afford to spend so much money on a fad. The only famous painting that he owned was one by Sir Joshua Reynolds, supposed to represent a young married woman, which hung in the dining-room over the fireplace. As a boy he had taken a great fancy to the picture, and when he grew up and became rich he bought it.
