

Builders seminar set

Farmington Community Education in cooperation with Oakland Builders Institute will offer a 16-hour seminar to help people pass the Michigan state builder's license examination.

The seminar is 6-10 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays, Nov. 12-22, at Farmington Community School, 30415 Shawwassee.

The seminar provides participants with the information needed to pass the state test as well as important updates on what may be included. It is designed for building trades people working without a license who want to work legally, for people who want to subcontract the construction of their own homes as well as for real estate investors and others who want to expand their business capabilities.

The instructor is a licensed builder with extensive experience teaching builder's pre-licensing classes. He is able to answer questions related to all facets of home building.

The seminar costs $150 a person, plus $15 for a course textbook and sample questions. Pre-registration is required by Thursday, Nov. 9.

For information, call the school at 489-3333.

council candidate Vicki Barnett, getting $4,555.

Most of Vagnozzi's contributions were for $100 or less and 87 percent were from Farmington Hills.

Vagnozzi had spent $6,372.88 leaving him $3,394.04. Sowerby had spent $35,076.11, leaving him with $7,135.47.

"I am getting a lot of support from a lot of people," Sowerby said. "It's not only friends but people like Sylvia Chekalinsky, who came in a cab to my office and came up to me on her walker to give me $25. That's how this campaign has been."

Vagnozzi said called Sowerby's war chest "mind-boggling."

"What justification is there in raising and spending that kind of money on a purely ceremonial job, as one of seven council members who presides over meetings?" Vagnozzi said. "That's why early on I had suggested to Mr. Sowerby that we agree to voluntary spending limits that would be within the range of past expenditures in council races. He did not agree and now we see why."

Council candidate Ben Marks raised $6,605 and spent $5,092.32 leaving him with $1,512.68. Uma said. "It's not only friends but people like Sylvia Chekalinsky, who came in a cab to my office and came up to me on her walker to give me $25. That's how this campaign has been."

"What justification is there in raising and spending that kind of money on a purely ceremonial job, uted $100 each to Fitzgerald and Sowerby contributed $50.

Council candidate Vicki Barnett raised $4,731.03 and spent $4,603.76, leaving $127.27. Her husband, Mark Stockloff contributed $331.53, and Splice contributed $250. Most of her other contributors gave less than $100. Council candidate Nancy Bates raised $4,291 and spent $3,039.63, leaving her with $1,251.31. Bates depended on many contributions of $50 or less and loaned herself $1,000.

Council Candidate Terry Sever raised and spent the least, $2,835.

Sever gave his campaign $2,420 in printing services from his business. Planning Commission's Brenda Kandt and her husband Dave were Sever's largest contributors at $75.

The museum was then given a fresh coat of white paint.

The gazebo floor was given a power wash and sealer application while the railings, seats and up-rights received white stain.

For rake sake

North Farmington High students and staff are preparing for the school's annual "Raider Rake" on Saturday, Nov. 11. Students and staff spend the day raking leaves and cleaning yards for shut-ins and senior citizens in need of assistance. The Special Services Department's Home Chore Division will provide names of clients.

Last year, more than 100 students and 15 faculty members worked at 27 homes, logging more than 220 hours of service, the most successful schoolwide service project.

Memory lane

As seen in the Nov. 3, 1955 edition of Farmington Enterprise:
■ An additional bus is being added to the 7:29 a.m. run from Farmington to Detroit in order to accommodate the increased number of commuters. Great Lakes Greyhound Lines officials announced.
