

THIS WAITER WAS SATISFIED

Old Negro Receives One Dollar for Every Cent He Collected From Wealthy Man.

"The above waiter will accept a tip, no matter how small it is, and pretend that he is satisfied," said a hotel manager yesterday. "When I hear of persons giving extraordinarily small tips it reminds me of an old negro waiter we used to have at Palm Beach a few years ago. His name was Winfield Scott.

"A wealthy but eccentric New York or arrived at the hotel early in the season, and Scott took charge of his table. He took his three meals at the same hours each day. At the end of the first he solemnly handed the waiter one cent. Scott was wise, so he bowed and showed his teeth and said: 'Thank rub, sub.' The next meal the same thing happened, and so on to the end of three months, when the visitor was about to leave. Scott waited on him with the greatest punctiliousness at every meal, never blinching that the tip he got was not perfectly satisfactory.

"After he had finished his last meal the visitor said to the waiter: 'Scott, how long have I been here?'

"'Just 90 days, sub,' was the answer. 'I have given you something after every meal, haven't I?'

"'Yes, sub.' 'How much does it amount to?'

"'Scott told him, 'Have you got all those pennies?' the visitor asked. 'Scott said he had, and the visitor told him to bring them. Scott returned with a bag of pennies and handed them over.

"'I'll take them,' said the man. 'Now this is yours,' and he handed over to the waiter $50."

DOCTOR'S FEE IN JAPAN

Physician Receives a Present of as Much as Patient Can Afford.

A Japanese doctor never dreams of asking a poor patient for a fee. There is a proverb among the medical fraternity in Japan: "When the twin snakes poverty and disease layude a home, then he who takes ought from that home, even if it be given him, is a robber."

"Often," remarked a recent lecturer on "Life in Japan," "a doctor will not only give his time and medicine free to the sufferer, but he will also give him money to tide over his dire necessities. Every physician is his own dispenser, and there are very few apothecaries' shops in the empire.

"When even a rich man calls in a doctor he does not expect that he will receive a bill for medical services. In fact no such thing as a doctor's bill is known in Japan, although nearly all modern practices are in vogue there. The strict honesty of the people does not make it necessary for the doctor to ask a fee. When he has finished his visits to the patient a present is made to him, just as much as the patient can afford. The doctor smiles, bows, thanks his patient, and the transaction is settled.

TO AID TEETHING BABIES

Lime-water Supplies Child With Just What It Needs at Critical Time.

Statistics prove that a large proportion of all the babies born die while teething. It becomes a serious question to the anxious mother how she can aid nature at this critical time. When the tooth is almost ready to appear, a judicious rubbing, or allowing the child to bite hard, safe substances, is often helpful and beneficial.

Have you never been alarmed at some sudden attack of sickness, and when your good doctor was summoned, had him affirm the cause to be teething, when nothing in the appearance of the mouth would indicate the coming of a new tooth? We think any mother who has taken careful observation will say that often, when the tooth is first forming, the whole organization is more disturbed than when the tooth is about ready to make its appearance.

Now, how can we help matters more than by supplying a child with its little system most needs in tooth-making? If we take the trouble to look into the matter we shall find that every tooth is composed largely of lime.

As soon as your baby has reached a suitable age for cutting teeth, put a few drops of lime-water in his milk at each meal. By thus supplying your child with just what he needs at this critical time, you will aid nature in her work and prevent many troublesomeness, if not fatal, results.

RISE UP AGAINST MOTORS

British Women Declare They Make Life Miserable and Endanger Children.

The village women of the United Kingdom have just petitioned the queen to help them to get some relief from the motor cars, "which have made our lives a misery." "Our children," they continue, "are always in danger, our things are ruined by the dust, we cannot open our windows, our rest is spoiled by the noise at night."

"We are only poor people, and the great majority of those who use motor cars take no account at all of us. Could anything be more pathetic than this, especially coming from a class whose lives are hard at the best of times, and to whom a gleam of human sympathy must be a veritable angel's visit?"

The irony of the situation was to be seen a day or two after the petition was sent in, when a report of the Women's Imperial Rights association appeared in the newspapers, setting forth by means of caravan lectures country people were being urged keep their windows open, and otherwise to adopt the simple means open to them to improve their own health and that of their families and dependents.—London Nation.

New Zealand "Tattooed Rocks"

Mr. Clement Wragge, who has inspected what are known as the "tattooed rocks," on the coast near Raglan, New Zealand, is distinctly of opinion that they are the work of neither Tamil nor Maori, but are the inscriptions of a very ancient race of sun worshipers people, antedating the advent of the Maori by uncounted centuries. The spiral circle, oval, crosses and squares, he says, are most significant, and confirm his opinion that New Zealand has been inhabited by early man. He considers the inscriptions are probably connected with those at Easter Island and Central and South America, and are Atlantean or Lemurian in origin; further, that the Maori copied the spiral from the relics of ancient people, and did not initiate it.

HOPS FOR PILLOW FILLING

Austrian Peasant Woman Recommends Them for Their Efficiency as Sleep Inducers and Beautifiers.

A man who suffered from sleeplessness picked up in Austria recently what seemed to him to be the best remedy he had ever found. It was nothing more or less than a pillow stuffed with hops. An Austrian peasant woman recommended it not alone as a sleep producer but as a beautifier as well.

Returning to this country the man bought some New York hops, famous for their beer-making qualities, but to his surprise they did not work as well as the hops he had tried abroad. He found out by experiment that hops that made good beer didn't necessarily produce good sleep.

After he had sampled a lot of different kinds of hops he found that, by mixing hops grown in Bohemia with hops grown in California and Oregon he got a combination which seemed to answer all purposes in the sleep-producing line.

He decided that he had hit it right when he took a couple of pillows he had stuffed with this combination in his office downtown home with him on the elevated. He got in at ten o'clock street carrying the pillow and sat in one of the double seats. Two men and a messenger boy sat with him.

At fifty-ninth street all three were in profound slumber. Several other persons who had been reading newspapers near him were in evident distress in their efforts to keep awake.

Inquiry at different drug stores seemed to indicate that the hop pillow idea was a new one, though hops have long been known to have sleep inducing qualities, as shown particularly in the case of beer. According to those who have tried hop pillows, you get all the soporific qualities of the hops in this way without breaking any temperance pledges or suffering any harmful effects.

Rhodes' Art Fad.

Although Cecil Rhodes was a busy man, he got time for a certain amount of reading. He made it a rule, at though very fond of good pictures, never to buy any for fear of developing a craze for collecting works of art, for with all his wealth he felt that he could not afford to spend so much money on a fad. The only famous painting that he owned was one by Sir Joshua Reynolds, supposed to represent a young married woman, which hung in the dining-room over the fireplace. As a boy he had taken a great fancy to the picture, and when he grew up and became rich he bought it.

Moons of the Buddhists.

lies between the latitude of and Calio, yet, owing to the insubstantiality of its atmosphere, its climate is purely Buddhist world, and, plus Buddhism, gain much merit by making the image.

Expurgating It.

"What did your father say when he heard that I had been here long on you?" "He said you were a numskull, a good-for-nothing, a jolt-headed, and is that all?" "That's all, Gray—except the adjectives."—Chicago Tribune.

Quartz Mills in Alaska.

Alaska has produced more than 200 million dollars in gold since 1888. So far only placer gold has been mined, except at Treadwell; but new quartz mining has assumed first importance, and quartz mills are going into Alaska in great numbers. For more than a decade the trail to the interior was lined with weary men carrying their packs and stumbling along over rocky ledges now found to contain more gold than the distant placers. As the great quartz mines in the Sierra Nevada succeeded the placer camps of California, so the quartz mines of Valdez are succeeding the famous placers of the interior. There is no healthier, happier or more promising prospect for a young man of energy than the quartz ledges of Alaska.

Ruins in Yucatan.

There is in Yucatan a chain of ruins 300 miles long, where once stood buildings richly decorated and erected with a vast amount of architectural knowledge. The buildings belonged to the stone age, when the remarkable figures in stone were carved with pieces of flint. The people of this age had not the use of either bronze or iron.

His Bones Easily Broken.

Known as the "glass-bone boy," James Lortsch of Caldwell, N. J., kept up his record when he fell on the sidewalk in front of his home a few days ago and broke his arm. This is James' eighth bone-breaking feat in the eight years of his life and his third within the last five months. In September he broke his right leg in kicking a football. In November, when he was standing in a wagon, the horse moved unexpectedly and jolted him to the wagon bed. The jolt did not roll him from the wagon, but broke his left arm.

Great in More Ways Than One.

"One peculiarity of automobiles that I don't remember to have heard mentioned," said a man who had just sent a suit of clothes to the cleaner, "is found in their great billity as mud and slush splashers."

An Ordinary Arrow rimmed wheel.

cuts into mud and slush and doesn't scatter either so much, but the broad, round faced tire of an automobile moving rapidly throws wide sheets and sprays far out from its wheels. When you see an automobile coming swiftly along a muddy or slushy street you want to stand back—way back. This I have learned by experience."
