Local News.

The East Farmington Mystic Workers will meet at Baguette Utley's Friday, June 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Newcomb of Detroit visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Voigt, Sunday.

Mrs. R. A. Rapon and daughter, Florence, of Detroit spent Monday and Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman H. Sprague.

The village council meets next Monday night in regular session and we understand that the question of a water system may be discussed.

A large number of people in the village exhibited their love for the old soldiers and showed their patriotism by a liberal display of the stars and stripes on Decoration day.

The Ladies' Aid will meet with Mrs. F. Bade next Thursday afternoon. Ladies take two o'clock car, go to Junction, transfer to Pontiac line, getting off at Mr. Bade's corner.

Wednesday forenoon, dense black clouds from the southwest overcast this section for a few moments and turned day into night. A storm then broke and a fine shower fell which was a welcome relief to the farmers whose crops were beginning to suffer for lack of moisture.

The board of health of Detroit is engaged in a crusade against impure milk and is dumping hundreds of gallons into the sewers because it reaches the city in bad condition. If the temperature is above 50 degrees it is a violation of the city ordinance. The officers have also been smashing cans that were found to be in a leaky condition. So far we have seen no account of fault being found with milk from this section.

This is the month of weddings, the bride's month, they call it, we believe, and right here we want to say that this office is equipped with the material to properly print invitations and announcements for such occasions. The city fellows cannot do the job any better, but they can charge more.

The Enterprise will, this week and hereafter, be mailed either on Thursday night or early enough Friday morning so that the papers will go out on the rural routes that day. We believe that this will better serve our subscribers. We ask our correspondents and all who have news matter to send in to remember this, and get all items in as early as possible.

A Manly Minister.
There'll be less sleeping done in future in the First Christian church of Los Angeles, because the rector just won't stand for it, as is evidenced by what he did some nights ago. It seems that the worthy man went into the pulpit to discourse, when he was annoyed by two men who were sound asleep in one of the front pews. He called attention to the fact, and one of the sleepers was aroused, and did not transgress again, but his partner did not wake to the rebuke, and quietly slept on. The parson became indignant, and as he had several hymn books to the pulpit with him, he fired one or two at the sleeper, but without avail, and then he unloaded all the books he had at the intruder, to the astonishment of the congregation, who by this time were tittering at a great rate, but the sleeper didn't seem to mind it much, for he looked up, changed his position, and fell asleep again. This is an astonishing case, probably unparalleled in history, but it goes to show that there's a limit to what preachers will stand, even when they are in the pulpit. And they are right. A man doesn't go to church to worship, he should remain away, and such sacrilegious camps as sleep, chatter and scandalize should be put out.—New Orleans Picayune

Circulating Libraries.
It is absolutely impossible to say just when the first circulating library was opened. If there was ever a record of the important event, it is lost. We know that during the middle ages stationers used to lend books to his patrons, so doubt we have the germ of the modern circulating library. One Samuel Pannocott started a real circulating library in England about the year 1740, but it appears that he was not very much ready for it, since it soon failed. Similar institutions at Bath and London, some ten years later, seem to have succeeded, and began to get a foothold, not only in England, but in other European countries.

THE COLORED SUFFRAGETTES

Don't Forget the Big Minstrel Performance

FRIDAY AND SAT. NIGHTS

The Whole Colored Population of Farmington Will be Out Including a Pickaninny

Don't forget the minstrel show two nights, tonight and tomorrow night, in Farmington town hall. The program is the best offered yet. You come tonight, then go and tell your friends how good it was and they will all come tomorrow night.

Forty colored ladies and gentlemen entertain you for an hour and a half with the latest and best in colored folk repertoire.

A playette, entitled "The Colored Suffragettes" will be presented first by fourteen handsome colored belles and one colored gentleman. This is one long laugh. It alone will be worth more than the price of admission. It is to be followed by a monologue and lullaby given by a southern pickaninny.

Then will follow an old time minstrel show program, given by 20 colored gentlemen. They will surely give you a splendid entertainment consisting of choruses, duettes, jokes, stump speeches, burlesque boxing matches, etc. The closing number is a chorus by the entire troupe. You can't afford to miss it.

We Want More News

The publishers of this paper desire that it shall fairly represent the enterprising little village where it is published and all the surrounding country tributary to it, but in order to do so we must have the co-operation of our friends and all friends of the paper.

Unlike large daily papers we have no reporters on our staff and must depend on the liberality and patriotism of the community for much of the news.

We therefore urge upon our readers the need of their assistance. We want news, lots of it and want it all the time. Use the telephone. No. 25, or the mails, or any way to get it to us and it will be fully appreciated. Stamps and stationery furnished to those who will send in weekly correspondence.

GUILE OF DRONGO, CUCKOO

Protected by Its Resemblance to Pugnacious Shrike, It Lays Its Eggs Where It Pleases.

A striking example of protective coloring in birds has just been added to the collection of the Brooklyn Institute Museum in the form of a drongo shrike and a drongo cuckoo. The shrike is a bird of pugnacious disposition, especially at the nesting season, when it guards its nest with, for a small bird, great ferocity. Douglas Dewar, from whom this account is taken, says that he has watched a pair of these little birds attack and drive away a monkey which tried to climb into the tree in which their nest was placed. Indeed, so able a fighter is the shrike that some other birds, notably orioles and doves, frequently build their nests in the same tree in order to share the benefit of his prowess.

The drongo-cuckoo lays its eggs in the nests of such birds as the king crow. These are pugnacious, even ferocious, and without ample guile a cuckoo could not accomplish this feat. But the drongo cuckoo has so like the drongo shrike, even having the same odd twist to its tail feathers, that the king crow is deceived by the resemblance and hesitates to give fight to what she takes to be one of the pugnacious shrikes.

VELASQUEZ A CHEAP ARTIST

As Court Painter He Received $11 a Month When He Was About Twenty-five Years Old.

Don Caspar de Guzman, Conde Duque d'Olivarez, born in Rome in 1557, became the first minister of Philip IV. In 1621, was dismissed in 1643 after a career of mismanagement and died in exile two years later. A portrait of the painter was through him that Velasquez at twenty-four became court painter to the young king.

at eighteen, in return Velasquez painted a number of portraits for his protector. The notable example, which has recently been presented to the Hispanic museum of New York, was painted when Velasquez was about twenty-five years old, shortly after he came to court.

The canvas, measuring 51 by 81 inches, came from Capt. Robert S. Holford of London, in whose possession it had long been held after having passed through the Ballie sale in 1858, when it sold for $558 10s., and the Scarisbrick sale in 1861, when it sold for $232 10s., very moderate sums compared to the surprising figure said to have been paid for it recently. At the time it was painted Velasquez was receiving $11 a month for his services as court painter—W. Stanton Howard, in Harper's Magazine.
