Take care of camera to take good shots

MONTE NAGLER

Taking good care of your camera will assure that it will perform satisfactorily for you for many years. Here are some basic tips.

- Never leave your camera in a very hot or very cold spot. Temperature extremes can warp delicate casings and fittings and distort mechanisms.

- Keep the body free of dust and dirt. A soft cloth works just fine. I've found that Q-Tips dabbed in film cleaner solution is an ideal way to reach those hard-to-get-at spots on your camera.

- It's easier than you think to accidentally have a camera knocked from your hands or bumped into a solid object. Accidents or rough handling can cause severe damage. So always use the camera strap. Having your camera securely around your neck prevents accidents (and theft).

- Most cameras aren't waterproof and can be damaged significantly if water gets inside. Take care to protect both body and lens from water. If your camera should get wet from rain, dry it off immediately with a soft, clean cloth.

- Don't touch the glass on the front or back of your lens. Fingerprints, if not removed right away, may eventually become permanent. Keep your lenses clean with lens cleaning tissue and lens cleaning solution.

- Store your camera in a dry, ventilated place. The original box with its moisture absorbing silica gel bag is an ideal means of safe storage.

- If you aren't going to shoot for a while, remove all batteries from your camera. This will prolong their life and will eliminate any chance of battery
