Retiring Reverend, wife look to adventures, holy surprises

Rev. Paul Blomquist, senior pastor at Orchard United Methodist Church for 11 years, is retiring effective July 1 after 41 years in the ministry. Recently friends and colleagues honored Blomquist with a retirement celebration at Vladimir in Farmington Hills. He and his wife, Ben, who is retiring as an elementary teacher with the West Bloomfield Public Schools, are looking forward to "new adventures and holy surprises" in their continuing journey. They will be living in Clarkston.

Rev. Carol Johns, the new senior pastor, is coming to Orchard from the First United Methodist Church of Owosso where she has been a senior pastor since 1985. Her first Sunday at Orchard will be July 14. The church is located at 30450 Farmington Rd. in Farmington Hills.

showcased people across the country making a difference with today's youth.

"With so much information coming in over the wires, agencies want their ad to pop out before the other guy," said Yessian, who lives in West Bloomfield with his wife and two sons.

The studio has recently completed a major renovation. Situated on a court near the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance building on near Twelve Mile and Farmington roads, the company now has four high tech production studios - one large enough to accommodate a full orchestra. A variety of awards and trophies are displayed in the front entranceway. Yessian Music has been at this location about nine years.

"We've become more client friendly. Equipment is state of the art. With fiber optic wiring, we can hook up to a singer in New York or L.A. with the music done here. We're mostly digital in our recording."

"We don't rent the studio out to others," he added. "It's just for our own business. We have three engineers and a fourth one coming in."

Looking back over 25 years, Yessian is pleased with his company's steady growth.

"I'm surprised we're still here. It's such an intangible business. The competition is fierce. That makes it more exciting and challenging."
