Show unravels gavel on legal profession

CABLE CONNECTION

MARY LINDA CALDERONE

Tune in to "Law Talk" on INFO-TV-12 Monday's at 3 p.m., Thursday's at 4 p.m., and Friday's at 10 a.m. "Law Talk" features members of the legal profession, law-makers, as well as various public figures who impact the lives of residents here in the Detroit Metropolitan Area. The program is co-produced by Farmington Hills attorney Mark Accettura and INFO-TV-12 volunteer Joe Capalbo.

As host of the program, Mark Accettura considers himself fortunate to be able to spend some intimate time with the guests that appear on the show. Mark says, "Almost to a person, I am struck by the humility and dedication of my guests."

Guests like John McHale, Jr., president and CEO of the Detroit Tigers are frequently surprised by their own success.

David Littman, chief economist for Comerica Bank, for example, is a reluctant celebrity, preferring to pursue the more academic aspects of his chosen field of economics.

Mark adds, "One cannot help but be impressed with the commitment portrayed by many of the show's guests. Reuvan Barlevav, M.D., author of 'Every Family Needs a C.E.O.' for example, is a tireless proponent of good fathering and family values. David Adamany, president of Wayne State University, has dedicated the last 14 years of his life to turning Wayne State University into the 16th largest public university in the country."

Talking about lifetime commitment, Mark points out, "Benjamin Napoleon, executive deputy chief of the Detroit Police Department was 19 years old when he joined the police department fresh out of Cass Tech High School."

How about Howard Simon? Mark says, "Here is a man who has served as Director of the Michigan Chapter of the ACLU for more than 20 years. Certainly a man as bright and articulate as Mr. Simon could have earned himself a much better wage in the private sector, rather than championing individual constitutional freedoms."

On the whole, none of the guests on "Law Talk" mentioned above were born to families of advantage or wealth.

Instead, true to the American Dream, they started from the bottom, worked hard and advanced on the strength of their hard work, commitment and sincerity.

Acquaint yourself with these special people. The one hour long format of "Law Talk" allows us the opportunity to do so - exclusively on INFO-TV-12 - your community access TV channel.

The next CAC meeting is Tuesday, Sept. 17, at 7 p.m. at SWOCC.

The next SWOCC meeting is Tuesday, Sept. 8, at 4:30 p.m. at Farmington City Hall.

Mary Linda Calderone is the Community Outreach Coordinator for SWOCC.
