IS THE GRASS REALLY GREENER ON THE OTHER SIDE?

We went to dinner with some friends a few nights ago and after we all had ordered and were served, one of the members in our party remarked that maybe he should have ordered the same meal as one of the other guests because it looked better than his. Whether it's the dinner, the neighbor's grass, or your friend's car, we should try to be content with what the good Lord has blessed us with. It is perfectly natural to admire someone else's possessions or attributes and a sincere compliment to them is a nice gesture; however, there is a great difference between admiration and jealous coveting. Covetousness is a deep desire to have something that belongs to someone else, and it is a sin against God. Every day we can read in the newspaper of crimes committed by people cheating and stealing from others. We should pray for God's grace to help us realize how green our grass truly is.

nor anything that is thy neighbour's.
