his team's matchup zone and special attention to Dane Fife, who had three treys in scoring a game-high 25 points, made it tough to get to the shooters.

"When you have three guys that can shoot like that, it's tough to stop," Fralick said, also referring to Clarkston senior guard Brad Conley. "We had some success against Rochester and Athens (in the matchup), but we played a better shooting team tonight. I thought the effort was always there, the execution wasn't."

Troy (6-6, 1-3) dictated the tempo in breaking even with the Wolves at 20 late in the second quarter, but the Wolves scored the last eight points in the final 1:58 in slowly figuring out the Colts' matchup zone to lead, 28-20,

The Colts struggled to start the second half, and Clark-ston picked up its defense and built its lead to 38-26 with 4:20 left in the third quarter.

Fife credited the presence of 6-9 senior center Marc Mazur for giving the team a defensive spark.

"When he comes in and is active on defense, whether he blocks shots or not, he makes other teams adjust to him." Fife said.

"In the second half, we slow-ly put it on them (Troy). We made them work hard," he added. (Offensively.) our exe-cution was good. We were patient. They were shooting shots within themselves."

The Wolves led 45-36 after three quarters, and scored the first 10 points of the fourth quarter. They held the Colts scoreless for about five minutes from late in the third to midway through the fourth to finish Troy off and send the faithful to the exits.

"Give Clarkston credit.
They make you work hard for every shot you get. They give you very few fast break opportunities," Fralick said. "When you play a whole 32 minutes off your half-court offense, things get a little tougher."

Senior forward Chad Bailey added 11 points and 11 rebounds for Clarkston.

Junior forward Jim Essian paced the Colts with 12
