

Kahn architects/engineers promotes 8

Albert Kahn Associates, an architectural and engineering firm located in Detroit, has promoted eight as part of a strategy for continued growth and diversification of services.

Four new senior vice presidents join Gordon Holsen, Kahn's president and CEO, on a new executive leadership team.

Robert Mauck, a Bloomfield Hills resident, is senior vice president/treasurer. He previously served as vice president and director of special projects.

Robinson

Charles T. Robinson of Birmingham is senior vice president/director of engineering services. He will continue with a full range of responsibilities as director of design-build services.

Whitney

Stephen Q. Whitney, who also lives in Birmingham, is senior vice president/director of architectural services. He continues his existing role as director of health care services.

Hank Ritter is senior vice president/chief operating officer. He formerly was vice president and director of structural/civil engineering. Four other firm members also received promotions.

George Barbu, a Rochester resident and vice president, becomes director of program and construction management. He formerly was director of project management.

Cynthia Paszko rises to the rank of director of special projects from that assistant director post.

Paul Maxwell, a vice president becomes director of project management from assistant director.
