

MICHIGAN STATE FAIR

THE GREATEST OF ALL FAIRS IN THE FAIREST OF ALL STATES

BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER BUT NO INCREASE IN PRICE

The admission remains at fifty cents, children twenty-five cents. No tickets are sold. Admission is by coin only. You drop your coin in the turnstile as you pass through. Bring the right coins with you and avoid the congestion at the change booths.

There is no event anywhere, any time, where you can see so much that will interest you as at the Michigan State Fair. Something of interest for every member of the family. It is the place to meet your neighbors and friends.

EIGHTY FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS TO BE AWARDED IN PREMIUMS AND PURSES. FIVE DAYS OF GRAND CIRCUIT HORSE RACING

The speed kings of the earth and the dare-devils of the air in racing and flights for supremacy. Circus, including Midway with the best tent features obtainable. The ocean of the J. Frank Hatch shows including water carnival imported from Europe. This show has been one of the season's big successes at the New York Hippodrome.

Immense exhibits of live stock, fruits and farm products. Big automobile show containing many of the 1912 models of passenger cars and trucks. This will be an especially interesting feature this year.

Electrical show and Industrial Exhibit on second floor of Motor hall. Grand night horse show and realistic, spectacular $10,000 fireworks production; "Pioneer Days and Chief Pontiac's Attack on Fort Detroit."

This magnificent spectacle is being especially built for the Michigan State Fair by the A. L. Due Fireworks Company and will be a tremendously popular attraction. Two hundred people in gorgeous costumes will participate in the sham battle between Indians and soldiers.

BASIS OF VEGETARIAN CULT

Not Unfair to Say Actions Are Dictated More by Sentiment Than Science.

It is, perhaps, not unfair to the large and militant community of vegetarians to say that their actions are dictated more by sentiment than by science. And by sentiment we do not so much imply the shirking of facts in favor of feelings, but rather seek to include in one term all motives which ignore questions of profit and loss to the individual or community in favor of considerations possessing a purely emotional sanction. A certain number of people will not accept the doctrine of "killing, no murder" even when applied to food, but so far as conditions of existence permit they will inflict no death in order that they themselves may live. We may disagree profoundly with this principle; we may even regard it as philosophically absurd, because death is only a phase of the cycle of being, and the plant is no less alive than the animal. We may regard such a belief as incompatible with the conditions of existence in this world, but we cannot argue with it, and we cannot help according it a certain amount of respect, so closely is it bound up with some of the finest elements in human nature.

Now the science of diet belongs to one of the most difficult and unexplored fields of knowledge. It must be admitted from the outset that little more than the rudiments are positively known.—A. D. Hall, M. A., F. R. S., in Harper's Magazine.

IN THE SUBURBS

Resident—That mansion over there belongs to a wealthy sugar refiner.

Stranger—Another "house built upon sand?"

Resident—No; it's on the rocks he made out of sand.

EASY ENOUGH FOR BROTHER

After reading what the London Chronicle says about it, no one could accuse Lord North of a love for music.

George III. on one occasion tried to persuade him to attend the "ancient music" concerts which his majesty was then patronizing.

Lord North refused most emphatically.

"But," protested his majesty, "your brother, the bishop, never misses them?"

"Sir," rejoined North, "if I were as deaf as my brother, the bishop, I would never miss them, either!"

Youth's Companion.

TRUTHFUL LAWYER.

Diogenes hurried down the street dragging a man by the coat collar. "Are you sure that's him?" some one asked.

The old fellow's smile was simply cherubic.

"It must be," he said. "He is a lawyer, but he admits that he can't make head or tail of the Standard Oil decision."

A PROFESSIONAL WISH.

"A man looks funny when he forgets to take the price tag off his suit of clothes," said one tailor.

"Yes," replied the other; "and yet I wish it could be made strictly fashionable for customers to wear receipt-bills on the lapels of their coats."

HE THOUGHT SO.

Wiggins—Do you know that your chickens come over into my yard?

Jiggins—I supposed they did, for they never come back again.—Exchange.

SENSIBLE.

"I have sold my old typewriter." "You were sensible, Jinx married him."
