Journalist inducted into Michigan Journalism Hall of Fame for his efforts toward a free press

Tim Richard believes one of his more significant newspaper stories was one that was never published.

In 1966, Richard, who was a reporter with the Kalamazoo Gazette, was excluded from secret meetings of the board of Western Michigan University.

"One day I asked for minutes of past meetings and the board secretary accidentally gave me the minutes of the secret meetings, during what they had made policy decisions," Richard said. "I wrote the story and the editor spiked it."

Richard said he never received a full explanation about why the story was killed, but believed the editor could not fathom the WMU board doing anything wrong.

"I got a fire in my belly about the issue of open government."

That issue started Richard on a long newspaper career which now finds him as news service regional editor for Hometown Communications Network, Inc., the parent company of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers. In his current role, Richard covers state, regional and community college issues.

He advocated and worked toward the eventual passage in 1976 of the Open Meetings Act and the Freedom of Information Act.

For his longtime commitment to the public's right-to-know, Richard, 62, was elected to the Michigan Journalism Hall of Fame on Jan. 17.

Stan Soffin, chair of the Michigan Journalism Hall of Fame Committee, said the committee was impressed by Richard's "courageous leadership on behalf of a free press."

"(Richard's) commitment to the FOIA and Open Meetings Act — and (his) tireless work behind the scenes to protect these meaasures — will stand as a model for Michigan journalists for years to come." Richard will be inducted April 18 at the Kellogg Center at Michigan State University.

The nomination letters reflect some of the professional respect that exudes from his peers and bosses.

Phil Power, owner of Hometown Communications Network, Inc., wrote in his nomination letter that Richard is the "single most competent" political and governmental reporter in Michigan.

"Tim's journalistic output is truly prodigious," Power said. "He regularly writes core stories, significant news items with localizations, possibilities scattered throughout."

Power also cited Richard for singlehandedly reporting policy issues associated with the State Board of Education and with its attempt fundamentally to change the nature of Michigan public schools.

"He is particularly the greatest example I know of a disciplined, serious and perceptive reporter relating statewide events to the needs of individual readers in their hometown communities." Bill Ballenger, editor of Inside Michigan Politics, once called Richard "perhaps the Capitol's most serious, scholarly reporter..."

Another Richard nominator, Lee Ann Johnson, cited Richard's efforts in co-founding the Michigan Freedom of Information Committee, and efforts in championing prisoners' rights in the press.

Marsha Stopa, president of the Metro Detroit Chapter of the Society of Professional Journalists, wrote: "The Michigan Freedom of Information (Act) is alive and well today because of Tim Richard's determination to never let legislation get swept under the rug or hidden in obscure language. Most of what we in the media know about FOI and sunshine laws has in some way, come to us through Tim Richard."

An early start

Richard grew up on Detroit's west side and attended Redford High School. He attributes excellent high school journalism teachers with getting him started as a reporter.

After he graduated in 1953, Richard attended the University of Michigan where he received a bachelor's degree in economics in 1957 and a master's degree in business administration in 1959.

He spent seven years at the St. Joseph Herald-Press and Kalamazoo Gazette. Richard joined the Observer & Eccentric in 1967, working as Oakland editor and editorial page editor.

Big stories

Richard's career has taken many interesting turns and twists, judging from some of his favorite stories.

In 1961, Richard won a first prize in the Michigan Associated Press contest for a feature series on St. Joseph (public) Junior High School and how it matched the standards set in James Bryant Conant's post-Sputnik book "The Junior High Today."

The unpublished WMU expose in 1966 led directly to his advocacy of the Open Meetings Act, and activity in the Society of Professional Journalists and Michigan FOI Committee Inc. to defend the "sunshine" laws and teach people how to use them through seminars and newsletters.

In 1971, Richard wrote about the "age of majority" in the old Observer and sold the idea to Gov. William Milliken, which resulted in the state laws lowering legal ages from 21 to 18.

"I had done a study of the maturity of people, and found people were maturing three, four and five years earlier than a century ago," Richard said. "Our

Scholar will speak at OU on race issues

Michael Eric Dyson, an author and scholar hailed as "the ideal intellectual for our time," will explore how race affects American social and cultural life in a 3 p.m. lecture on Thursday at Oakland University.

The lecture, "Between God and Gangsta Rap," is part of OU's African-American Celebration Month, when the campus community explores the richness of other cultures with educational and social activities.

Dyson's commitment to urban youth and passion for popular culture has inspired him to take black studies to the streets. His lectures draw from sources ranging from Foucault to James Brown, from Heidegger to Tupac Shakur. Scholarly critics say he is "one of the most important voices of his generation."

This ordained Baptist minister explores race with the voice of a preacher and the heart of a young man from the ghetto. "I am an oppositional African-American cultural critic," he said. "Such criticism rovels in black culture's virtues, takes place in its achievements, laments its failed opportunities and interrogates its weaknesses."

Dyson has contributed to such publications as "The New York Times," "Vibe," "Energy," "The Nation" and "Rolling Stone." His books, including "Reflecting Black: African-American Cultural Criticism," "Making Malcolm: The Myth and Meaning of Malcolm X," "Between God and Gangsta Rap," and the best-selling "Race Rules," have earned critical acclaim. He eagerly awaited next title, "What Have We Come To? Bridging the Generation Gap."

Dyson's lecture will be in Varnor Recital Hall. Tickets are available at the Center for Student Activities service window next to 49 Oakland Center. Ticket prices are $4 for Oakland University students; $7 for OU employees and alumni association members and $10 for the public. Tickets purchased by Jan. 23 will be discounted $2 each.

laws were based on 21, and that age of maturity, because that's when a man was strong enough to wear and bear armor."

But Richard will be remembered for his work on FOI and Open Meetings acts, work he did for the public good and the public's right to know. He enjoys helping out citizens with FOI requests and giving seminars on the same.

"You have a right to know what the government wants to do to you before it does it to you. You have a right to know the amendments before the final product comes out, who's really on your side or who's voting yes at the last minute."

"You have a right to your own input of government. You have a right to know who else has input to the government."

Richard has won his share of awards for his work, receiving Suburban Press Foundation's national prize for feature story and editorial. Richard received six awards from the Michigan Associated Press Editorial Association.

Last year he won first prize for a column from the Michigan Press Association.
