Diet clinic patients donate items to women's shelters

Victims of domestic and sexual abuse in metro Detroit are being helped with donations made by patients at the Medical Weight Loss Clinic.

"Now through Sept. 1, our patients will be contributing desperately needed household items to women and children in five emergency shelters," said Dr. Jerry Cooper, medical director of Medical Weight Loss clinics.

Shelters receiving the items are HAVEN, First Step, Turning Point, Domestic Violence Project Inc.-SAFE House and YWCA-Interim House.

"Summer is a time of great need because women often leave home after school lets out," said Hedy Nuriel, executive director of HAVEN.

"We're always in need of disposable diapers, canned goods, paper supplies and personal hygiene products, especially during the summer months, when shelters are always full," said Jackie Zaddach of First Step.

"This will be very helpful in our struggle to aid survivors and we appreciate the support of Medical Weight Loss patients," said Joy Kolodziejczyk of SAFE House.

Mary Lu Lewis of YWCA-Interim House said, "We need all the help we can get." Laurie Huff of Turning Point had the same sentiments. "We rely on the generosity of our community and organizations like Medical Weight Loss Clinics to help us out."

Medical Weight Loss is conducting the drive in its 17 Detroit area clinics.
