Hills Scouts visit 'Under the Rainbow'

Some 100 area Girl Scouts learned about the value of diversity during a three-day day camp recently.

Girls from western Wayne County and Farmington Hills spent 6 1/2 hours on three days recently at Garden City's City Park taking part in the second annual "Under the Rainbow" program.

Participating were scouts from Garden City, Westland, Livonia, Farmington Hills and other suburbs.

Heading the camp were Nancy Rocker and Edna Eastman, both of Garden City. Rocker is neighborhood service unit director/Garden City No. 25.

Under the sponsorship of the Michigan Metro Council of Girl Scouts, the girls were involved in a varied activities — all connected by a multi-cultural theme.

Specific purposes were to "enhance the multi-ethnic and multi-cultural relationships; build healthy human relationships and self-concepts; and enhance the multi-cultural climate of Girl Scouting."

The scout leaders also used the day camp to "celebrate and experience the rich pageant of diversity that forms the human fabric of the Detroit area."

A Mexican fiesta was held Wednesday, observance of Oriental holidays on Thursday and an "old-fashioned picnic" on the closing day Friday.
