City hall showcase relives carnival times

The latest showcase at the Farmington Hills City Hall is a display of Carnival Chalkware. These "prizes" for games of chance and skill on the Carnival

Midway were first produced about 1910 and distributed until the 1950s. They were manufactured from plaster of paris and were distinguished by gaudy bold colors. The chalkware is one of many collections of Historical Commissioner Pam Correll. This showcase will be on display through March.
