

Where can I find?

This feature is dedicated to helping readers locate sources for hard-to-find merchandise. The bard waxes poetic

We asked you to look into your heart and find a way to express your deepest feelings. With a little help from Will Shakespeare's Sonnet 116, dozens of you responded with beautiful poetry.

Below, we print the winning sonnet submitted by William J. Dalrymple of Burton, Mich.

"Behold!" said Dalrymple upon learning of his noble triumph. "I thoroughly enjoyed trying to finish something the great William Shakespeare began (and finished in good fettle)."

Dalrymple will treat two friends to a makeover at Figaro salon in downtown Birmingham.

Our thanks to all of you who put pen to paper and captured our hearts.

Share our favorites with the love of your life this Valentine's Day.

*Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments. Love is not love
Which alters when an alteration finds
Or bends with the remover to remove:*

*With thorns of whim or fancy; discontent;
With staid. And on its mortal ideal Rests noble thoughts of a lifetime spent
In inner thought; Perfection—deep and real*

*Forever, love's the invention, sublime
Of gods and mortals too, only bending
To boundaries of a limitless time
To the songs of the wind that Angels sing.*

*I vow in my heart of hearts to be true
That, 'til eternity, my love is you.*

William J. Dalrymple

*Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments. Love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds
Or bends with the remover to remove:*

*A mark that nature has allowed
To be tenderly drawn upon thy brow.
For my affections should now waver when,
A fault no less than that of divine intent*

*Should lend itself to thy countenance.
Allow me, instead, to be filled with this—
The reminder of when first we kissed,
And alone, let that be the tie
That binds my soul forevermore to you.*

Sheila L. Lunsford-Burns

*Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments. Love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds
Or bends with the remover to remove:*

*Rather, Love seeks to prove an anchor
In a storm-toss'd world... a harbor,
safe from strife,
Opens wide to embrace, to take her
And rock her in a tranquil bay for Life.*

Laura Ash Joeckel

*Let me not to the marriage of true minds
Admit impediments. Love is not love
Which alters when it alteration finds
Or bends with the remover to remove:*

*Oh no, love is an ever-fixed star
That binds the traveler, though in distant lands
Wandering astray: not lost, however far
From that kind home where all keep love's commands.*

*Or 'tis an oak, deep-rooted, whose wide boughs
Now veil Apollo's car with leafy shade,
Now lose their leaves in autumn's
soughs;
Yet in its constant heart no change is made.*

*Love stirreth not, yet treads true lovers' lane
Where're they pace—and guides them home again.*
