

Heppner, who was the team's low scorer with a 91 (third overall); and Katie Carlson, who matched Mazzonis' 83.

Two others were all-district: Laura Haddock, at 94, and Jessica Makowski, at 100.

All of which means the Spartans could make a major impact at the state tournament June 4-5 at Forest Akers West in East Lansing. First, however, there's the state regional Friday at Oakpoint in Brighton to deal with.

"If you take a look at our scores over the season, they're very steady," said Wagner in examining the

"She is just unbelievable," said Churchill coach Sharon Lasowski of Aittama. "You never had a girl with so much talent. She's like her. I've never seen a girl her age hit the ball like that."

What makes the Chargers' future so rocky? They lose one key player to graduation in Stacy Lousley, who shot a 104 at the conference tournament.

The WLA's top four teams all have the capability to make the playoffs. The Chargers had at least their four WLAA scorers named to the all-conference or all-district teams. Stevenson's highest scoring score was a 94, Churchill's was a 101, Farmington's and Northville's was a 102.

Which means the dramatic drops in scores at conference and all-district are replicated in state. So watch out, those outside the WLA's sphere.

Sophia added her players thought second place was an attainable goal, each one believing she could've made up three strokes in her own score and enabled Farmington to overtake Churchill for second place.

Churchill was a little disappointed, coming off a real high win Monday, and they didn't think they played as well as they can," she said. "But they're still psyched up for the regional."

Jimenson was one of six on the all-league team. Farmington teammates Karen Berger (senior), Casey Smith (senior) and Mary Ann Smith (senior) were among the next 12 golfers who were named to the all-district team.
