Living The Good Life

It seems that one of the biggest factors in determining whether one is "living the good life" or not, is related to how we handle stress and problems. We all have varying amounts of stress in our lives, but some people just seem to handle it better than others. More often than not, the people who handle it well seem to just not perceive the "bad" and stressful things as particularly bad or stressful. Living the good life can be difficult if we do not have God in our lives. God is the great problem solver and stress reliever, and with His help, we can manage our lives better and be more at peace with ourselves and those around us. At times, everyone has to deal with a certain amount of anxiety, and learning to deal with stressful situations is part of life. The Bible tells us that we should show a gentle attitude toward everyone and that we should not worry about anything, but in all our prayers ask God for what we need, and always with a thankful heart.

Cast all your anxieties on Him, for He cares about you.
R.V.S. 1 Peter 4:7
