Fathers

The Bible tells fathers to bring their children up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord, and to not provoke them lest they become discouraged. This important commission given to fathers by our Lord, can at times be very demanding, but it can also be extremely rewarding. It is important to realize that being a father, at times, may fall short of what is expected of them. How fathers handle their failures can be an example to their children of how they should respond when faced with similar situations. The Peace Corps uses the slogan, "The toughest job you'll ever love." This could also be a good motto for those who have accepted the responsibility of being a good father. However, unlike the Peace Corps, fathers have a lifetime commitment. The influence that fathers have on their children is unique. Children are a direct reflection of their parents, and the examples that parents set in the home will help determine how their children will behave in the future.

Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up in the discipline and instruction of the Lord.
R.S.V. Ephesians 6:4
