Sanctioned bowling leagues are way to go

TEN-PIN ALLEY

AL HARRISON

Is your bowling league American Bowling Congress sanctioned? Most are, but some are not. The reasons to sanction are many and the reasons not to are few. Perhaps some bowlers do not want to pay the $12 annual membership fee.

If that is the problem, consider that it amounts to less than a nickel per game for most.

This year the Women's International Bowling Congress fee is also $12. It was slightly less in prior years.

The benefits are many, including an expanded awards program, bonding against loss of league funds due to fraud, theft, burglaries and holdups.

The primary reason for ABC/WIBC is to have a governing body to make fair rules for everybody, to set standards and regulate them so the game is the same everywhere.

It should be the same test of skill for all; the lanes always the same dimensions and the ten pins placed on a consistent basis. The local associations do their part to maintain and publish each individual average yearly and to maintain permanent records of honor scores.

By having your verifiable score, you are eligible to enter any and all tournaments. The ABC sanctions over 10,000 tournaments annually.

Local associations will also help settle disputes. Over 100 years of rules-making experience has gone into the making of the ABC rulebook.

ABC and the local associations provide the necessary supplies to help keep the league running smoothly.

They are also the voice of bowling, promoting the sport among the media and bowlers alike, to assure its continued growth and popularity.

Every bowling league, even those loosely organized should join and be ABC or WIBC sanctioned. Founded in 1895, the ABC is one of America's largest and oldest sports organizations.

•Evergreen Children's Services will be holding its sixth annual Bowl-A-Thon on Sat. Nov. 28 at Cloverlanes in Livonia.

Pledge sheets will be out shortly and anyone who wishes to support this worthwhile cause can either contribute, or take part in the No-Tap event on that date.

Each entrant must bring in a minimum of $50 in paid pledges.

This organization is in the forefront of the fight against child abuse. Evergreen provides counseling, foster homes and arranges for adoptions. This year they are also beginning a program of counseling for families of delinquent children as well.

They work throughout the southeastern Michigan area and need the funds to be able to provide this service for those unfortunate children who are in these abusive situations.

Call Evergreen at (313) 862-

1000 to see how you may help in the Bowl-A-Thon, and if you are asked to donate, please dig a little deeper and give whatever you can.

•Who is Sandy Schultz? If the name is not familiar, that's because Sandy Winbigler got married and now bowls under the new surname. But she is still up to her same high standards as last Monday night she rolled a 300 game, her second in the All-Star Bowlerettes league at Livonia's Cloverlanes.

Her first 300 came a season ago when she was still Sandy Winbigler. She is also in the Detroit Bowling Hall of Fame under her old name.

It was the third straight week that the All-Star Bowlerettes have had a perfect game. Oddly enough, Sandy had another rare feat only the week before, as she recorded a triplicate of 247-247-247.

I am still checking the archives to see if that might be the highest all-time set of triplets by a woman bowler at any level, local, state or national.

•One of the youngsters in the Sunday Youth Classic travel league had a few firsts with his 300 game last Sunday, where else, but at Cloverlanes.

This time it was 15-year old Howard Hardy of Farmington Hills who had his first taste of perfection, but it was also the first time that a SYC member had a 300 at Cloverlanes, and the first time that a 300 game came from the ranks of the Classic Division, which is for the younger set with averages from 140 to 175.

Howard, a lefty and student at Livonia Clarenceville High was bowling with rental shoes, and a used Teal Rhino ball that he bought used from Julie Wright.

He will soon be receiving his 300 award ring from the SYCBA office in Wisconsin.
