Newswoman to speak at Adat Shalom program

NBC News chief foreign affairs correspondent Andrea Mitchell will be the guest speaker for the annual Business and Professional Women's Voices program of the Jewish Federation of Metropolitan Detroit at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 1, at Adat Shalem Synagoguo, 29901 Middlebett in Farmington Hills.

The event is the major appeal on behalf of the 1999 Allied Jewish Campaign. The campaign is the Detroit Jewish community's major fund-raising event.

mjor fund-raising event. Monday Oct. 19 is the deadline for reservations.

Admission to the Business and Professional Women's Voices program is $25, with a minimum pledge of $180 to the 1999 Women's Allied Jewish Campaign. Dinner and dessert will be served. Baby-sitting is available upon request for children age 2.1/2. and older by reservation before Friday, Nov. 6.

Prior to being named chief foreign affairs correspondent, Mitchell was NBC News' chief White House correspondent, Previously, she was chief congressional correspondent and served na a regular political analyst on The Today Show.
Mitchell covered the White House for NBC News from September 1981 to November 1988 and appeared many times on "Meet The Press" as a panelist and occasional bost.
Linda Lee is Business and Professional Women's Voices chair, with Marcy Gottesman as associate chair, Nancy Glass is B&P vice president.
Reservations must be accompanied by a check made payable to Jevish Federation of Metro-politan Detroit. Reservations with checks should be mailed to Business and Professional Women's Voices, in care of the Jevish Federation, P.O. Box 2030, Bloomfield Hills, MI 48303-2030.

Andrea Mitchell

48303-2030.
For more information, call Lisa Adelman at the Jewish Federation office, (248) 203-1459.

Fashionshow next Thursday

The Longaere House volunteers are sponsoring the 29th annual Fall Fantasia Fashion Show on Thursday, Oct. 22, at the Novi Hilton. Pashions will be provided by Liz. Claiborne of Novi and Suzanne's Bridal Gallery of Farmington. The cost for the fashion show and luncheon is $30. The event will open at 10 a.m. with a juried boutique of items such as jewelry and home fashions for purchase. Lunch will be served at noon and the fashions will follow. There will be door prizes and raffle tickets to purchase as well as a cash bar. Tickets are now available by calling the Longaere House at 477-804. Checka, Visa and Masterard are accepted.

ercard are accepted.

Liz Claiborne will be showing

STAFF PROTO BY BILL BRESLES

Models: Jan Hankins, Tula Economy and Pat Thoresen model fashions to be featured in the upcoming show.

model fashions to be feature.
clothes from casual to professional to an evening look. Other trends that will be included are sweater sets and blazers.

The Longacre House is a historic home whose primary mission is to provide cultural, educational and social opportunities a in the appending show.

for residents. The oldest portion of the home was built as a six-room Victorian house in 1869 by farmer Palmer Sherman. It was later expanded into a 20-room Georgian country manor. This was the first house in the area to have electricity and a telephone.

Cook building from page B1

York to Mexico and kept extensive organized records. He and his wife were active in the Farm-ington Historical Society and worked together on some research and indexing. Mildred Cook died in 1978.

Anyone who wants to write about any aspect of Farmington finds the Cook collection a wonderful help. Others find family history.

Farmington is more than a bedroom community. It has a history going back to 1824.

The history of Michigan is reflected in the history of one small town. The Cook collection in the history room of the Farmington Community Library is one of Farmington's special assets.

Ruth Mochlman is a local historian and author.

Chat room from page B1

want to thank you. Tears came to my eyes as each World War II veteran was recognized. What stories could've been told. My husband said it was the first time he had been honored indi-vidually since he returned from the ETO in 1946 and he was proud and happy, yet sad about the friends that were killed or proud and happy, yet sad about the friends that were killed or maimed.

"He was just 21 in 1946 and upon being discharged went to college, got married and catablished a family – putting all ohis memorics of war buttles behind him. World War II was probably the greatest influence in our lives and I am so proud oh him and all of the others who served during that great conflict."

I can't remember working on project as gratifying as this one. I was deeply moved at the roll call, thinking of my own dad and the hardships he endured serving in the South Pacific. Along with our entire staff, I felt privileged to spend the day with these brave people who protected and defended our country.

Sentimental Journey

Sentimental Journey

Sentimental Journey
On Friday, Nov. 6; the Senior
Adult Division again honors
Farmington and Farmington Hills World War II veteras and their loved ones with another grateful solute! Time has a way of marching on and we're seizing
the moment to honor this unique group of people now comprised of seventy, eighty, and ninety somethings in a triumphant fashion. The special day includes a "sentimental journey" through the war years and a chance to celebrate and bond in recegnition of days gone by and lives well lived. Whether you were an Army nurse stationed stateside, a GI who trudged through the jungles of Gundalcanal, an officer assigned to the European theatre or a wife, brother or sister who waited patiently at home, this program is for you.

The day begins with keynote speakers, Mayors Aldo Vagnozzi and Mary Bush, as well as written greetings from the president of the United States and governor of Michigan. All branches of the service will be represented and asked to stand at "roll call" time.

Take a walk down memory lane and experience a one-of-akind visual display or "wall of history" guaranteed to touch everyone's heart and bring back a flood of memories. This display is on loan to us by Citizen of the Year, "Uncle" Jack Curd, and includes copies of archival posters and prints from Washington, D.C. The Costick Conters Dubin Hall will be transformed into a USO Canteen and a catered roast beef lunchcon and all the trimmings will be included as will dancing to the sounds of the big bands from the 1940s.

Door prizes donated by area restaurants enrich our special event and showcase much community goodwill. The Farmington Hills American House Retirement residence is sponsoring the event. Tickets are available at the Farmington Hills senior center for $3.50. Ticket sales are expected to be brisk so be sure to get yours carly. The senior center is located within the Costick Center at 28600 11 Mile. For more information, call 473.1830.

Nora Dolan is program planner for the senior cadult division.

 $M_{anicure}$

Trick or Treat? Trick: Entertain 30 costumed guests. Treat: GFS Marketplace is just around the corner.

Rather than spending several hours of your already over-demanded time preparing a menu and guessing at portions, serving sizes and budgets, you could stop at Gordon Food Service

Marketplace. The staff at GFS Marketplace is trained and prepared to help you make a shopping list based on a menu they can produce for

you. Your list will include not only food items, but also beverage and paper products.

Don't forget that GFS Marketplace carries a full range of janitorial supplies to clean up after your ghoulish guests!

rand opening

in your neighborhood

Now Open! Open to the Public Over 2,500 Products Restaurant Quality Products

No Membership Fee Bulk Pack Sizes

Low Wholesale Prices Open Seven Days A Week Computerized Party Planning

Party Supplies Commercial Savings Program

www.gfsmarketplace.com

Sweetest Day Special

Oct. 17th

& Pedicure

Gift Certificates Available

RPER IMAGE