Questers convene

CONVENE

The 1998 Michigan Questers fall state convention was held recently at the Novi Milton. Eight chapters from Farmington, Northville and Plymouth were hosts. Co-chairwomen were Vern Davis and Ina Hocker.

The theme for this year's convention was "Milady's Pancy - A Victorian Experience." More than 300 members attended the convention, including the international president of Questers.

The speaker for the membership at large meeting was Nancy Bryk, curator of domestic life at Oreenfield Village. After a lunch at the hotel, members enjoyed a fashion alson of Victorian wedding gowns that was presented by Quester Pam Yockey. She has collected historical gowns for 20 years, concentrating on those worn for weddings. The gowns dated from 1800-1910.

The Questers is an international organization that studies antiques and encourages the preservation and restoration of historic landmarks. For more information, call area coordinator Judy Stewart at 349-1336.
