CYBER SHOPPING

According to a report from Dataquest, Internet holiday retailing will reach $2.35 billion worldwide (more than double 1997 totals of $1 billion). Roughly 10 percent of U.S. consumers polled made an Internet purchase during the week of Thanksgiving, according to Marketing Corp. of America. Says Josh Linker, president of GlobalLink New Media, this is due to a number of factors:

- Consumers have overcome their security fears and show it by using credit cards online.
- Time management. People can do in 10 minutes, what would take them an hour at the mall.
- Online access is growing. According to a Marketing Corp. of America study, half of U.S. adults have Internet access.
- Specificity. Instead of driving from store to store, consumers have an incredible resource of information at their fingertips.

GlobalLink New Media is an Internet development company in Bloomfield Hills.

ELITE FASHION

Elite, the newest fashion retailer at Fairlane Town Center, delivers just what its name promises: high-style women's fashions and accessories that guarantee a one-of-a-kind look.

A local brother and sister business team opened the boutique that carries a broad size range, from 2-26. The new store began last April as a single Fairlane Town Center kiosk, selling accessories only. Before long, Elite amassed such a following, it simultaneously ran four different kiosks in the mall. The shop's selection spans casual through evening fashions, including coats. Also find handbags, scarves, sunglasses and shoes.

ISLAND APPAREL

If you plan to visit a balmy tropical island in the next few weeks, you might be shopping around for resortwear instead of warm woollens. Roz & Sherm's Annie Frank suggests the following hot designers for cruise or resort attire:

- Tommy Bahama: Classy safari looks in khaki and pastel blue, including comfortable two-piece silks.
- Harri and Hino & Malec: Not found in your local retail mall, these two designers provide a vast assortment of simple, yet elegant, day into nighttime wear.

Any fashionable cruise outfit should have a pair of classy pumps to accompany it, says Frank. Roz & Sherm shoe manager and buyer Paula Becker says lucite, high platform bottoms and strappy pumps are top sellers.

Tie the whole resort outfit together with sterling silver jewelry by three new designers - M&J Savitt, Vaubel and Lazaro.
