A Parent's Obligation

Parents have an obligation to make their home a strong and stable environment for their children, as well as for each other. Parents usually learn quite fast that they should never make promises to their children that they cannot keep. Children usually learn by example, and they take things at face value. So if we tell them we are going to do something, they usually expect us to do it. Teaching and displaying good moral values and beliefs at home, will help to stem unfavorable peer pressure in their daily lives. A loving and caring home should be a refuge from the outside world, that at times, can be somewhat demanding. Being a good mother or father can, at times, also be quite demanding, and a parent may occasionally become upset and angry in certain situations. This may not necessarily be wrong as long as it is not a malicious or hateful anger, but rather a determined, disciplined attempt to provide the best guidance for one's family. God wants the family to be loving and righteous, and parents have the obligation to instill in their children Godly principles for them to live by.

I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth.
K.J.V. 3 John 1:4
