What do these people have in common?

They all want to be successful. They all want to have friends. They all need love. They're all autistic. The Michigan Autism Society provides a place to learn about the different faces of autism. Just like the people who have autism, no two cases are alike. And while there is no cure, there are people who can help. For more information, call our hotline, toll-free: 1-517-882-2800.
