'Farmington Extreme' on stage for good cause

High school students from Farmington, Harrison and North high schools are performing for a good cause 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 30, during what is being dubbed "Farmington Extreme."

Prices are $5 for students and $7 for adults.

Proceeds from the program, to take place in the auditorium at Farmington High School, will benefit The Farmington/Farmington Hills Neighborhood House, which in turn will help people who suffered damage to their homes from recent storms.

The best performance of the evening will earn Cedar Point tickets for everyone in the act, Gaughan said.

"It's kind of like a community wide talent show, combining students from all three high schools," said Farmington High School junior Brian Gaughan, who is producing the program.

As of late last week, there were 14 acts lined up for the program, including skits, dancing and bands. Tickets for "Farmington Extreme" went on sale Monday, at Farmington High. Prices are $5 for students and $7 for adults. For more information, call 248-474-4685.
