Baptist Church marks 175 years

Dr. Doug McLachian

First Baptist Church in armington will celebrate its 175th anniversary on Sunday, Feb. 11. In 1826, 11 individuals met to "fellowship us a church in gospel order." It seemed more practical to start a church in Farmington than to travel the 15 miles by ox cart to the Baptist church in Pontiac.

Meetings were held later that year. The church moved to its present location at the corner of Shiawassee and Farmington roads in 1850, constructing a wood frame building. An educational wing was added in 1929 and a new auditorium was built in 1959.

The Rev. Fred D. Froman has served as pastor since 1988. He is assisted by Rev. Scott Mikel, a native of Farmington Hills.

Jewish Enrichment seminars have much to offer

On-line and off-site courses and programs for young adults and young families are among the new features of SAJE – Sem-inars for Adult Jewish Enrichment.

Hosted by the Jewish Community Center, SAJE is open to all adults who wish to enhance their Jewish knowledge, SAJE courses will be conducted in one four-week session from Feb. 27 to March 29 at both JCC locations, as well as at additional off-site locations.

Courses will be held at the D. Dan and Betty Kahn Building in West Bloomfield and at the A. Alfred Taubman Jowish Community Campus in Oak Park. There will be no class on March 8 due to the Megillah reading in area congregations.

The Women of Exodus, New Age Spirituality, Practical Judaism, Jowish humor, Dead Sea Scrolls, music and cooking are among the more than 35 classes to be offered. A new course on Jowish spirituality will be held off-site in Birmingham. There also will be three Junch and learn sessions at various locations around the communication.

Again this year, SAJE courses will be taught by local rabbis, cantors, educators, scholars and community leaders representing the entire range of Jewish observance.

the entire range of Jewish observance.

A kick off event featuring Detroit native Rabbi Lawrence Kushner is planned for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 13, at the JCC Kahn building. Rabbi Kushner is a noted author and rabbi-in-residence at Hobrew Union College, Jewish Institute of Religion in New York. Rabbi Kushner's appearance is co-sponsored by Libby Mall, Jewish Family Service and the Jewish Federation's community outreach and education department.
