Sunday, April 15, 2001

ARTISTIC EXPRESSIONS

Latin duo, LSO get ready to move audiences

A bha Dearing sounded like she was still on top of the world Tuesday afternoon. Four days earlier she won the 2001 Detroit Music Award for outstanding classical vocalist at the State Theast.

"It was such a surprise," said Dearing who direct the choir and orchestras at Morey High School in Farmington Hills. "Ny teecher Frances Brockington was in my category so that made it even more of an honor. But the thrill didn't stop there. Dearing began the evening by performing at the awards ceremony with her husband Steven Dearing the steep of seen us before or seen us before on see force on us before on see force of the service of the s ad never heard us

or seen us before
so it was a wonderful opportunity to get our sound across,
said Dearing, a former Plymouth
resident now living in Ferndale.
Fortunately for those who couldn't make the awards, Abha and Steven will perform music Concerts
Dearing Concert
Doo — perform
Day
Dearing Concert
Day
Dearing Concert
Day
Dearing Concert
Day
Dearing Concert
Dearing

from their CD. Orchestra presents an evening presents an evening with the present 7:30 mm. Saturdey, April 21, at Churchill High Schoel, 8900 Neroburgh, (north of Joy Road), Livonia. Ticketa $15, $10 atudents, call (245). 645-6656, For currently in the works at Joe LoDuca's studio in West Bloom-field, at Birming-

Two to tango: Abha and Steven Dearing will perform tango music by Astor Piazzol-la in concert at Birmingham Temple in Farmington Hills.

Latin music 🕟

Latin music

If you love Latin music you won't want to miss the Dearings' rendition of The History of Tango by Astor Pinzzolla, Suite Buenes Aires by Maximo Diego Pujol, and Brazilian folk music by Celso Machado.

"Spanish music and Latin fever are so big now with Ricky Martin and Jennifer Lopez and there's so much good music for fute and guitar, and voice and guitar, said Dearing, who when she isn't singing is playing the flute. The music helps to bond cultures. The roots are in Affican, Cuban and South American music. You just have to move to it."

It's no wonder that Steven loves the music as much as Abha. After all, it's what brought them together. They celebrated not only their third wedding anniversary on April 11 but also their joining together as a musical duo.

"People are really responding to Latin music," said Steven, a guitarist nominated in the outstanding classical instrumentalist category. Abha and Steven, who teaches guitars at the

BY LINDA ANN CHOMIN STAFF WRITER Ichomin@oc.homecomm.net

ohn Bower leans across the table as if he's about to dissi-

ohn Bower leans across the table as if he's about to divulge a secret. "So who do you think did it?"
For the last hour, the Ypsilanti playwright left a trail of clues for solving one of the major crimes in the early part of the 20th century. Bower thinks he knows who, or at least the reason why, two men boarded a train in Ypsilanti in 1916 to steal two bags of mail. He'd like others to guess their identity and maybe even help close the case of the Great Ypsilanti Train Robbery.

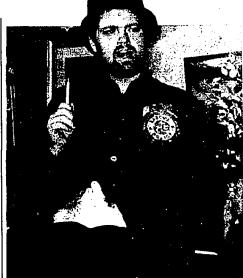

Bower and Sarra Grivas, a Livonia resident, are inviting amateur aleuths who will help unravel the mystery when their cast of five looks for answers during an interactive dinner theater Friday, May 4, at the Angel Food Cafe in Ypsilanti. St in the Victorian decor of the cafe, The Great Ypsilanti Train Robbery of 1916: An Evening of Historical License 'turns back the clock to a simpler time when most of the towns surrounding Detroit were rural, and automobiles came in one color—black.

All of the characters in Bower's

black.
All of the characters in Bower's play are real and lived in Ypsilanti at the time of the crime.

Digging up details

Digging up details
I went to the library and the Ypsilanti Historical Society to dig up information on the robbery of 1916 in Depot Town because I wanted to work with local material," said Bower. It amazes me that it happened in Ypsilanti. The train passed through our communities and these men escaped. Add to that the fact it was only 85 years ago. This is timeless. We wrestle with issues such as relationships between men and women and personalities."
Grivas takes on the role of one of the townie more famous clitzens, and what a character she is. According to the Sept. 29, 1916, Daily Ypsilantian-Pross, Mrs. D. Z. Curtiss single-hand-edly chased down two car thieves, "climbed onto the running board and shut off the engine at the same time covering the driver with a revolver." She then ordered him and his part-ner in crime into the back seat until officers arrived.

On the trail: John Bower plays Edward Batway, the tough Ypsilanti cop looking for the train robbers.

"When we did the play in March one lady told me she knew my character's husband," said Grivas. "That sent shivers up my spine to think there could still be clues or people out there who know something."

Crime clues

there who know something."

Crime clues
Augustus Beyer had left $50,000 to build Beyer Hospital in Ypsilanti. Could the check have been in the mail? Is that what the robbers were after?

"I couldn't have made up characters this good or the story, said Bower who began uncovering names connected to the robbery only four months ago. "The newspaper said there were two dark-clad figures who entered the train as it was bound from New York to Chicago, took the engineer as hostage, threatened to blow everybody up with nitroglyceria and then fled with two bags of mail. There was a $4,000 reward but they were never caught."

Bower plays Edward Batway, one of two cops trying to find the robbers. Bower frequently takes on the role of the good guy when putting on mini-dramas during services at $1. Luke Lutheran Church in Ann Arbor. That's where he and three of the cast members originally met. Bower began writing and producing theater for church camps at age 8. He has a degree in languagofilterature from Judson College in Illinois.

"The Detroit cop (played by Tim Gerken) thinks my character is a lick," and Bower. Ttried to look back and see what was going on to develop and see what was going on to develop

What: Cherubim Players present "The Great Ypsilanti Train Robbery of 1916: An Evening of Historical Licenso," an Interactive comedic dinner theater Wheat 5:15 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. Friday, May 4

₩ Where: Angel Food Cafe, 6 West Michigan Cofe, 6 West Michigan Ave., Yysilani, 174, 150, 188 per couple, Includes choice of the control of the choice of the control of the lys. Basil Crusted White Fish or Grilled Chicken with Boursin and Shitake. Advance ticket purchase and meal selection required, call (734) 483-0135

the characters. Women didn't have the vote. One of the characters, the refined Miss Priddy (Janelle Reahm), is a suffragette, and a profe at Normal Col-lege. She even-tually became at the conege that's now Eastern Michi-gan University. We also have the town embalmer and embalmer and the man who owned the local underwear fac-

The robbers left the train a mile from the Fair Lane Estate and Henry Ford (Joseph Klei) was one of the first on-site the next morning so I made him one of the characters."

Amateur sleuths

Amateur sleuths
The rest of the more than 60 "characters" will be played by the audience who along with their tickets will receive subpenas letting them know they're suspects. Upon arriving at the cafe, each will be given a description of their character.
"The main character's table is in the middle of restaurant; it's a town meeting investigation," said Bower. "I'm amazed at the way people go along. People want to participate. They want to have fun somewhere where the language doesn't get out of along. People want to participate. They want to have fun somewhere where the language doesn't get out of control. The night is for fun.

"We encourage people to dress in period costume," added Givias who had no provious acting experience until joining the drama team at St. Luke Lutheran Church. 'In March

Please see $LEUTHS, C2

Prim and proper: Miss Priddy (played by Janelle Reahm) is a suffragette and professor at Normal College which is now known as Eastern Michigan University.

bery of 1916." CONCERT

UMS Choral Union brings surround sound to Hill Auditorium

By Linda Ann Chomin Staff Writer Ichomin@os.homocomm

Thomas Sheets and the University Musical Society Choral Union have sung requiems by Verdi, Mozart and Brahms but none quite compare to the trumpets sounding from all directions in "Messe des Moris" by Berlioz.

The French composer wrote the requiem as a memorial to fallen French soldiers upon receiving the commission from the Minister of Interior. In its debut in 1837, more than 400 singers and musicians assembled to trumpet the arrival of judgment day. The performance was declared a success much to the delight of Berlioz who had wanted to produce a large-scale sacred work for some time.

Musical collaboration

Musical collaboration

Not to be outdone, although notably on a somewhat smaller scale, Sheets as conductor of the UMS Choral Union, is conductor of the Onlo Court Orders, the bringing together 135 singers, the Greater Lansing Symphony Orchestrs, 28 musicians from the University of Michigan Symphony Band, and tenor

Amatour slouths: Sara Grivas and Janelle Reahm work together to help solve the mystery of the "Great Ypsilanti Train Rob-

Stanford Olsen, who regularly sings with the Metropolitan Opera, for a Sunday, April 22 performance at Hill Audi-torium in Ann Arbor.

"This requiem is in a class of its own, the most colossal choral orchestral work in the international repertoire today," said Sheets who also conducts the Masterworks Chorale at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills. "On stage is the principal orchestra, more than 70 members of the Greater Lansing Symphony Orchestra, tenor soloist Stanford Olsen, and 1st impani. Another 28 players in four small brass orchestras surround the audience. Two are in the second balcony, two at the far end of the stage extension.

"Berliox read the words in the text about the wondrous trumpet shall sound throughout the land calling all to be judged and understood this to mean no one would be outside the call to judgment. He wanted the audience to experience that. When it debuted every single person was engulfed by the sound. It's an incredible effect no matter where you're sitting."

Undoubtedly, the "Requiem, with all ta drama, was Berlioz's favorite composition. He wrote to a friend, "If were threatened with the destruction of the whole of my works save one, I should crave mercy for 'Messa des Morts."

"As Berlioz conceived it, it was quite Morts.

"As Berlioz conceived it, it was quite influential to other composers," said Sheets. "Verdi wrote a diluted version with only two offstage trumpet. For me, the challenge will be to keep every-body together with the musical forces flung all over the room. It's a financial and logistical challenge and usually performed only once a generation in major metropolitan area. It's 28 years since it was done in Ann Arbor. The preparation has been very exciting, a labor of love.

Please see CONCERT, C2

Surround sound: Thomas Sheets will conduct one of the masterworks of choral litera-ture, the Berlioz' "Requiem."