FOCUS ON PHOTOGRAPHY

MONTE NAGLER

Simply measure equal borders around your already mounted photograph and carefully cut your mat. Make sure the blades are sharp and use fine sandpaper or an emery board to eliminate any rough spots on the edges.

To produce a collage of pictures, perhaps of the entire family, just cut as many "windows" out of the mat board as you'll need. Then tape each picture to the board from behind and back them with another piece of mat board. You're now ready to add a frame.

Frames come in many styles, colors and prices. For photography, simplicity is the best guideline.

Plain metal frames don't draw attention away from the impact of the photograph, yet at the same time they lend a complementary finishing touch to your picture. Metal frame kits are available in all photo, art supply and frame shops. Buy sections in the lengths you need and your frame can be assembled easily in a matter of minutes.

Be sure to use glass, too. Glass not only protects your photograph, but also adds to the appearance of your finished work. Regular, single-strength glass works best. Non-glare glass reduces the "snap" of your photo and makes the colors look

Other types of frames are available. Plain wood frames will enhance many photographs, while more modern Lucite frames will add a contemporary touch.

Most pictures look best when hung at eye level. Try a grouping over a large piece of furniture such as a sofa or buffet, or over a fireplace. Place a larger picture in the center, surrounded by a few smaller ones.
