recent and future initiatives. "The most exciting part is seeing the art," said Jannifer Tobin, arts council executive director. "The party is wonder-ful but to see those original works by such wolk-known and well-loved artists is exciting. It's not the same as seeing it in a book - the color and build up of paint. And space is such a great way to attrack kids. They're so into space."

The element of space is what Leslie Greeneisen is counting on to hold children's attention long enough to slip in a little art.

"Artrain is the opportunity for kide to be able to see first class art in their community," said Greeneisen, arts council education coordinator. "We hope to inspire them to seek out art and not take it for granted."

Local ties

Local ties Artrain USA was founded in Ann Arbor in 1971 just for those reasons - to enrich peo-ple's lives by bringing museum quality art to areas without cecess to metropolitan muse-ums. Since then 2.78 million visitors have been able to view original art first hand. The Ply-mouth stop marks the end of a Michigan tour to Standish, Oscoda and other towns to che-brate Artrain's 30th anniver-sary.

"I'm continuously impressed with the news we get back from the road about the importance, how rural America and small towns are lucky to have the opportunity to see real art and institute education programs to accompany the visit," said Polich. "It's inspiring to hear stories of S. Cloud Minnesota which has beautiful arts facil-ity but little activity going on, or of Arvada Colorado laying railroad tuck to bring Artrain there.

"Plymouth is important because there's an enormous amount of railroad traffic and many times trains can be irri-tants. While the arts council and community already have a full roster of programs and activities, it's a nice way for CSX to bring Artrain and to give something back to the community. We at Artrain like
