TO HELP AND BE HELPED
It is just as important to let people help you as it is to help them. Aside from the fact that we often need help from others, there is another important reason for letting people help us; if you've ever helped anyone, you know the satisfaction that follows from someone's aid. If someone offers you their assistance and you don't allow them to help you, you deprive them of that very real human need to be needed. It can also be a good lesson in humility to have to ask for and receive help from others. Helping people, like most things that have to do with human relations, has two equally important sides. We should be equally willing to offer our assistance to others and allow them to help us. Perhaps more to the point, we should offer help cheerfully, and receive it gratefully. The social bond between people is clearly strengthened by the reciprocal aid that we give to and receive from one another.
Brethren, do not be weary in well-doing.
