Redford

Miss Ethel DuBois closed her school last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Vrooman are at Cass Lake, where they have a cottage, for the summer.

The Northrop bungalow is nearly completed on the exterior and is a very imposing structure.

Mr. Tupper's new house is going along at a rapid rate now and bids fair to be a fine looking residence.

The basement for John Venus' new building is finished and work on the structure will now go forward rapidly.

At a special meeting of the village board of health held Monday night, Dr. Holcomb was reappointed health officer for the ensuing year.

Fred R. Wardle, who returned recently from a winter's sojourn in Florida, is now on the ocean on the way to England, where he will spend some time.

There will be a special meeting of Victoria chapter, No. 290, O. E. S., on Tuesday evening, June 4, and there will be work for the evening. Members please be present.

This week, C. E. Ramsey, purchased of A. M. Bosworth that portion of his plat lying just west and adjoining the new Northrop bungalow on Grand River avenue. The piece has a frontage of 300 feet on Grand River avenue, is 200 feet deep and extends to Valley avenue.

Rev. G. W. Evans was unable to be out last Sunday owing to an injury he received a short time before when he fell while in Detroit. The pulpit was filled in a very creditable manner by Mr. Langlev of Bell Branch, who preached a very able sermon.

Last Sunday evening the two Burgess families, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. and Mr. and Mrs. R. H., entertained at an evening luncheon a number of Detroiters. Those in the party were the Misses Kirkpatrick, Helen Chambers, Anna Stillson and Messrs. Lew Andrews, John Andrews, John Stevens and H. C. Burgess.

A large crowd of people turned out at the services of the laying of the corner stone of the new Methodist church last Sunday. The program, as carried out, was very impressive and interesting. The work is now going ahead on the upper story of the edifice and it will only be a short time until the building is completed. White brick are to be used and a very pretty little church will soon be added to Redford's other fine buildings.

Charles A. Pierce was born in St. Lawrence Co., N. Y., on November 21, 1847. He completed his education at the St. Lawrence County Academy of New York and taught school there one year before coming to Redford. At the age of 21 he came to Michigan, locating in Redford and began life where he was to live all his years as a school teacher. After one year of teaching here he left for Decatur, Ill., teaching there a year, returning to Redford to settle down for life. He resumed his teaching, devoting in all eight years to the public schools of Redford and Greenfield.

During forty-three years residence in Redford he by his good moral qualities and intellectual fitness gained the confidence of his fellowmen who trusted him with various township offices and other places of trust and civic responsibility.

In September, 1871, he was married to Miss Sarepta Prindle and to them was born a son, Harry E. Pierce, of Detroit.

Of a family of eight children, Charles A. Pierce is the fourth to leave this world. There remains an only brother, William Pierce, and two sisters, Mrs. Sophia Barnes and Mrs. Julia Old residents on or near the old homestead in St. Lawrence county, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. Amanda Mathews, of Decatur, Ill. There are but two grandchildren, Ralph and Gladys Pierce. A large number of nieces and nephews and other relatives, many of whom live in or near Redford, remain to mourn his death.

He died on the evening of May 21, 1912, at his home in Bell Branch at the age of 64 years and six months.

He lived a quiet, unostentatious life among his fellowmen, gaining as the years passed by a reputation for honesty and integrity that showed the principles that governed and controlled his life, molding to a large extent the community in which he lived and inspiring the confidence of all who knew him.

As a friend he was loyal and true in all his relations, needing no incentive other than the universal brotherhood of man: generous in his duties as a citizen, a neighbor and a brother.
