are interested in sharing their creative processes in dance, drama, literature, music, poetry and the visual arts with students with disabilities. Artists must be interested in learning how to accommodate students with a variety of disabilities.

Qualified artists will be trained to work with students at an Artist-in-Residence Training Institute to take place at the R.A. MacMullan Conference Center at Higgins Lake in Roseconum June 15-18. Following training VSA arts of Michigan will provide work for artists in artist-in-residence programs in K-12 schools throughout the state.

"The show is interactive and I leave myself open to discussions," said Chimento. "When I ask members of the audience if they misbehaved, people stand up like crazy. I can't believe they wouldn't admit it. But we have a lot of fun. I give out prizes such as holy cards, the baseball cards of the Catholic church. They ask, 'does it get warm wearing a habit?' You think it's easy lugging around 20 pounds of gabardine? This isn't a fashion designer."

Fun evening
Nancy Coumoudouros isn't a Catholic but she finds Late Nite Catechism funny because she works with Catholics in the cultural arts department for the cities of Farmington Hills/Farmington. Ironically, her offices were formerly owned by the Sisters of Mercy.

"We're looking forward to a fun evening," said Coumoudouros, cultural arts coordinator. "When we conducted a community survey three years ago, one of the things it revealed was people wanted to see live performances, so when we programmed our Concerts at the Costick series last year, we decided to try live theater. It's a challenge because we don't have a public auditorium but the response has been overwhelming to the series."
