and his start, which completed user first season at BGSU lost year, and Mayberry belleves he'll fit well into their detensive scheme.

"Last year they had the biggest turneround in the NCAA, so the program is on the rise," Mayberry said, anding the Falcons went from 2-9 two years ago to 8-3. Meyor was subsequently named Mid-American Conference Coach of the Year.

While he also started at wide receiver, Mayberry 5 orto was playing correstback on defense. Coach John Herrington said he was "the best cover comer around."

"That's what I'm going to play. "That's what I'm going to play," Mayberry aid." It comes natural but now I get to go and learn how to do it; so I'll be even better.

"They're going to give their cornerbacks a chance to play. They pretty much play mark-omen all the time, so (BGSU) kinda suits me better than any other place."

Mayberry also seriously considered Mismi of Ohlo and Western Michigan, "but the people at Bowling Green fit me better," he added. "The compus is a great place, and the ecademics are good. The place just fit me well."

The 5-foot-12, 160-pund Mayberry, he plans to study business, said he was told he might play this year as a hird comerback.

The BGSU coaches also want him tod 10 to 15 pounds before next season.

"I don't think it will affect me," Mayberry sold. "I think I'll get faster, Mayberry sold." I think I'll get faster, Mayberry sold. "I think I'll get faster, Mayberry sold." DAYE CONDENI: Condeni also had a war zhle immersain or it he CMU me.

DAVE CONDENI: Condeni also had a lavorable impression of the CMU coaching staff led by Mike DeBorde. He was captivated by the Mount Pleasant campus when he visited in December.

Pleasant campus when he visited in December.

'They have outstanding facilities, definitely the best in the MAC and probably better than a lot of big schools, Condeni said.

'Their program is on the rise, I think. They started a lot of young kids last year, so they're excited because overything is looking up. I'm getting in at the right time.

Condoni also had an offer from Eastern Michigan, and Toledo and Louisville showed some late Interest.

'But it was too lille, too late,' he said. 'I really like Central, regardless.

They're the ones who stuck with me.
It's nice to be wanted.
I' really love it up there; it fits my condent (6-4, 215) played tight end and stong safety for the Hawks. He could play either position for the Chippewas or possibly even outside incebacker.
They'it iry me at all the position and see where if it best, 'he said. 'I know they definitely needed a tight end.
I' thinds like defense but just play genywhere would be great as long as i get on the field.'
Like Maybarry, the CMU coaches would like Candoni to add some
