endured inclement weather three of the last four. But Bennett's thinking only positive thoughts for the concert featuring Livonia vocalist Rebekah Walker. A second year voice major at Western Michigan University School of Music, Walker sings songs such as I Could Have Danced All Night and Music of the Night from Phantom of the Open. Her first CD Classical Pavorites will be available at the concert.

We borrowed the stage from the city of Phymouth the first two years, said Bennett. The LSO has historically played a trio of years," said Bennett, "The LSO has historically played a trio of American patriotic music in addition to the light classical and pops."

"There's a variety of music," said assistant conductor and French horn player Carl Karoub. "It's old fashioned music in the park. In honor of the 100th anniversary of the birth of Richard Rodgers we'll play Victory at Sea, a song written for a World War II film score and guest artist Christopher Hayes performs Blue Bells of Scotland and Danny Boy."

"It's a family concert," adds

Shesiuk, "Chris is Carl's son-in-law."

Shesiuk asks Karoub if he would like to conduct the selec-tions in which Hayes is soloing. It's obvious friendship is key to he longevity of this orchestra. Many musicians have performed with the orchestra for years because of the relationships formed between members music formed between members, music director and board of directors. But it will take more than mutual admiration to keep the orchestra on the stage of Churchill High School auditori-

Another way is by attending the Oct. 11 benefit featuring a dinner, silent auction and light classical concert at Laurel Manor in Livonia. Tickets are $50. Call (734) 425-4835. Buying a ticket to the benefit will help the orchestra put on their 30th season which opens 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 9, with guest violinist Carla Tynchuk performing Edvard Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole. The always popular Nuterneker returns Dec. 7, with the Decaborn Ballet Theatre. University of Michigan School of Music piano professor Arthur Greene performs Rachmaninoff's Concerto

No. 2 Jan. 18. The intimate auditorium of the Livonia Civic Center Library is the setting for a chamber concert 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 23. The first four movements of Brahms German Requiem concludes the season March 15, at Ward Memorial Presbyterian Church in Northville, and combines the choirs of the church and Madonna University under the direction of Dawe Wagner. Ticket prices are $16, $10 students and children.
