Music series spotlights singers and songwriters

BY LINDA ANN CHOWIN
STAFF WRITER

Bill Keith has heard his share of music as station manager at WSPD in the Plymouth Canton Educational Park for the last 12 years. That's why he's excited about the performers booked for the Live in Our Living Room concert series opening Friday, Sept. 6, with Jo Serrapere and the Willie Dunn, and Jim Roll at Trinity House Theatre in Livonia.

The theater's been bringing in contemporary music acts on a regular basis for more than three years.

"The series is called Live in Our Living Room because of the intimacy of the theater," said Keith, concert coordinator and board member of Trinity House Theatre.

"There's a diversity in music styles. The strong point is acoustic with some rock oriented and jazz."

"I've developed a lot of contacts with a lot of artists over the years. Some have played the theater before like Jan Krist, Jim Roll, Greg Mahan. Some are new. Each of the shows is exciting to me in a different way. I want to see how Jenna Mammin turns out with jazz but mainly we want to put a spotlight on really talented musicians, especially acoustic singer-songwriters. They always spotlight up and coming rock bands, hip hop, electronic music. This is a place where artists can connect with the audience."

Serrapere and Roll are just a few of the performers who will appear in the series.

Here's the lineup:

- Sept. 7 Jennifer Erb and Greg Mahan
- Sept. 14 Stewart Francke
- Sept. 20 Jenna Mammin
- Sept. 21 Ann Arbor song-writer Dave Boutette, Chris Buhalla, Brian Lillie and Timothy Monger

■ Sept. 27 Kate Campbell
■ Sept. 28 Robert Deeble
■ Oct. 4 John Austin
■ Oct. 6 Kevin Meisel and Dave Boutette
■ Oct. 11 Jan Krist and Brad
■ Oct. 12 Claire Holley
■ Oct. 18 Lost Dogs
■ Oct. 19 Ryan Adcock

Concerts take a hiatus for most of November when a theatrical production will be presented.

The Live in Our Living Room series continues with comedinn Bill Thomas on Nov. 29. Miranda Stone plays the theater Nov. 30 followed by Delta 88 on Dec. 6, and Tangerine Trousers Dec. 7.
