Capture the game's spirit when shooting sports

hether it's the family vol-ley ball game in the back-yard or the major league baseball game at the stadium, baseball game at the stadium, sports photography can reward you with many impact-filled and semorable snots.

So "go for the gold" with your camera. Here are some tips to help you get good sports photographs, As in all

As in all good photographs, Bit the frame for impact. So when photography fill the frame for graphing sports, a telephoto lens is needed. Use the fining the action in close. For the little league game down at the corner lot, a moderate 135mm lens will do. But for the major leagues, you'll need a major league lens of 200mm to 400mm in length.

You'll require an action-stopping shutter speed of at least 1/500 second , so fast film is in order. Use a 400 ASA film in either color or black and white.

order. Use a 400 ASA film in either color or black and white. The key to good sports photography is to anticipate the action and capture the spontaneity of the game.

In the photograph shown here taken during a major league baseball game, I wanted to capture the peak of the action at home plate. I pre-determined exposure using the 1/1000 second shutter speed and pre-focused my 200mm lens on the batter. By keeping my left eye open, I could follow the action and watch when the pitcher would release the ball.

It all paid off with this action filled shot. Only by pre-focusing determining the exposure ahead of time and anticipating the action, was I rewarded with the picture.
