Bright Ideas From Your Local Merchants

IS MY CHILD GIFTED?

I know my child is bright,
but gifted? My child:

- Learns at a faster pace and differently than other children
- Does not need rote learning to understand concepts (sees rote learning as "busy work")
- Asks more questions than I can answer or questions that have no answer
- Has a heightened sense of fairness and right and wrong
- Is a perfectionist who is reluctant to try new things
- Sees himself or herself as different

I know I have a challenging child, but gifted? My child:

- Is demanding, needy and rarely satisfied
- Is a walking argument
- Is overly excitable (and may be mislabeled as having ADD/ADHD)
- Intense in things he or she does or says
- Is more comfortable talking with adults
- Has heightened sensitivities to sound or touch (clothes tags, too much or too little noise, etc.)
- Is simultaneously at different ages, intellectually, emotionally and socially

So What Do I Do?

Call Gibson School to:

- Get the names of licensed psychologists who can evaluate your child and offer guidance on educational options
- Learn more about a place that has been educating and nurturing gifted children since 1972
- Talk to other parents who have been where you are
- Help your child discover his or her gift
