Your bometown newspaper serving Farmington and Farmington Hills for 116 years

SUNDAY October 27, 2002

75 cents VOLUME 116 NUMBER 1

👪 For holidays In the 13th annual Home for the Holidays craft show will be held 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 2, at Farmington High School. More than 100 crafters showcasing handmade crafts, jeweiry, art, food and other unique items are expected at this year's show. Show highlights will include pyrography (wood burning) items, cinnamon roasted almonds and pecans, homema Michigan maple syrup, hand Antimotion in the structure of the struc

🖬 Plans watched

Officials at Clarenceville Schools will be watching the news carefully before mak-ing a final decision about whether to approve several student trips. Tentative approval has en oiven to a marching been given to a marching band trip by bus to Walt Disney World for February break, 2003, and the annual eighth grade trip to Washington, D.C., in the Washington, D.C. in the spring, interim Superintendent Cheryl Leach said the band has also proposed a trip to Sarnia, Ontario, but plans haven't been finalized. Because the safety of situ-dents and staff remains a high priority, school staff will monitor world and high priority, school staff wiit monitor world and national events as the dates of departure draw closer. "Ne will be keeping you tully informed." Leach told board members Thursday, "and watching the national news and alerts from our federai government before any final decisions are made."

www.ohserverandeccentric.com

1

- S.

DZDO2 HOMETOWN COMMUNICATIONS NETWOR

Forum to benefit diversity Group meets at North Farmington

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WRITER

<text><text><text><text><text><text>

spearheaded the effort to show officials how dangerous it was entering the school from the east. They even video-taped the back-up of vehicles waiting to turn left just before the school's early morning start time. On Friday, senior Liz Tiylor, 17, said off after entrance to the school. Bight for a safer entrance to the school. She thought the issue of widening

PLEASE SEE STUDENTS, A5

orbended the effort to show officials

PLEASE SEE DIVERSITY, AS

The littlest waiter was 4 year-old Ryan Gabriel, who was big enough to help clear a table or two.

Garden Cafe celebrates

BY JONI HUBRED STAFF WRITER

Jan Scielung first noticed the quaint, Victorian house on Grand River south of Grove Street while working as a caterer in the Farmington area.

"I often came here to visit, and I thought this would be a neat place to own someday," she said during last weeks ribbon cutting ceremony for her new cafe. One day, she spotted something she'd been waiting to see - a 'For Sale' sign on the former Mrs. Lowills 'Ea Cozy at 32905 Grand River. Within 24 hours, she'd made

s

World of Etoors A was seen to be a series of the series of (fidenvo) 4171) luid tu (AAA)

PLEASE SEE CAFE, A4

dents took on government officials to make entering the school safer. Their efforts led to a dedicatel defict-turn aig-nal being installed at the intersection where the accident occurred. And now plans are secured to widen 12 Mille to five lanes from the school entrance to Middlebelt next spring. U.S. Rep. Joe Knollenberg announced federal funding has been allocated to start the project. Government class students in 2000 does listen. After the death of Harrison student Daniel Lee in a March, 2000 car acci-dent outside the school, dozens of stu-Officers plan Halloween treats will hand out bags filled with glow sticks, potato chips, coloring books, stickers and Farmington Public Safety officers will be handing out goodie bags in city neighbor-hoods Halloween night. "This has been an annual event for more than 10 years," said Carol Lukas-LeBlanc, doministrative assistant to Director Gary Goss. "We will be driving through Farmington neighborhoods beginning at 5:30 pm. until at least 9 pm." PSO-1 Terry Purves and Lukas-LeBlanc encils

Joseph Jackson II asked questions about street lighting in the 12 Mile Road area.

PIFASE SEE HALLOWEEN. A4

C'ville to offer Leach top post

BY JONI HUBRED STAFF WRITER

A group of Harrison High School tudents got a real-life lesson in their overnment class.

government class. If you point out a problem and com-plain enough, sometimes government does lister

BY SUE BUCK STAFF WRITER

The search for Clarenceville School District's Superintendent may be over, end-ing right where it started. At the School Board's regular meeting Thursday, Superintendent Search Committee spokesperson Gary Garrison announced discussions have begun with interim superintendent Cheryl Lack, who was previously the district's assistant super-intendent. Lach agreed to full in when Thomas Thatan accepted a job in Waterford earlier this year. "Everybody I've spoken with had nothing but the highest regard for the way Cheryl ran the district," Garrison said. Asked whether she intended to apply for the job once the district started seeking applicants, Leach asked for a little time to think it over. She returned with an answer that delighted the committee. "She would have been our choice from day one" Garrison said.

one," Garrison said. one; Garrison said. The committee's proposal to the board, unanimously adopted, was to give Leach an opportunity to meet informally with staff and the community, to present her vision for the future of the district. She would then be formally interviewed by the board at an open meeting and offered the position at the Dec.

MEASE SEE LEACH, A3