CARNIVAL SIDE SHOWS DRAW BIG CROWD TUESDAY EVE

The side shows at the High School carnival Tuesday evening proved to be the most interesting. All of them attracted much attention and comment.

Juglo, the wild man, proved to be none other than Richard Fox, a "junior" dressed in skins and tattooed. His hair was done in a high knot and held in place with a bone.

The bathing beauties were: Miss Novi, Floyd Cairns; Miss Pumpkin, Lewis Maas; Miss Pasadena Park, Harold Chamberlain; Miss Waples, Lake; Edward Fink; Miss Henriette; Miss America; Frank Kerr.

The shooting gallery was in charge of Richard Cox. Popguns were the weapons used and animal crackers served as both targets and prizes.

Because Madame Pichu of Mars was unable to come to the crystal, the Up-Side-Down Man was substituted. This famous seer, better known as Mr. Brethour, was a big attraction and an accurate prophet.

The tea room was done in a very charming Japanese effect. Japanese lanterns hung from the lights and Japanese screens cleverly placed added to the effect. Yellow and orange poppies were the flowers used. Tea, sandwiches, wafers, and little cakes were served at small card tables. Miss Mac Kellar was the hostess. Hedwig Schoen and Mary Ellen Fink, waitresses were dressed as Japanese girls.

An art exhibit was skillfully arranged by Mrs. Loomis and Miss Heaton. Each grade was represented. The display consisted of lamp shades, color wheels, pen and ink sketches, poster work, free hand drawings, and miscellaneous drawings. The division under Miss Heaton was a display of the work done by the fourth grade. The story "Beowulf" was told in pictures. There were several geography booklets and hygiene posters, and exercises of English, arithmetic, and penmanship.

The gambling booth was cleverly arranged. Donald Ross, an expert counterfitter, had charge of this booth which was labeled "double and increase your money." The bill having been handed to Don, was promptly folded double and treasured.

"Great Debates in American History," a set of 14 volumes has been added to the library to be used for reference by the American History class.

The material included is not so hard to understand as the name implies. Some of the debates were by congressmen in their discussion of certain issues. Not only are the debates themselves given but their results also which makes the books more interesting.

There are two each on civil rights, finance, economics and social rights, foreign relations and one each on the Civil War, tariff and taxation, slavery 1790-1857, state rights-slavery-secession, department of government, and colonial rights-the revolution-the constitution.

A large megaphone has been presented to the school by the Girls' League. It will be painted in the school colors, blue and white, and will be used by Cheryl Ross.

The Seniors received $37 for a load of magazines taken to the City last Thursday.

FROSH DOWN SOPHS

The Freshmen girls eliminated the Sophomores from the inter-class basketball tournament held last week by defeating them 15-2 Tuesday afternoon. The Freshman squad is the regular second team and has had quite a bit of experience. Viola Lamb was unable to play but Duynne Murphy filled the place of forward well, making most of the baskets. The Sophomore team was slowed by the lack of experienced players, having only four regulars.

The Freshmen show promise of having a very good team in another year or so.

Dearborn Beats F. H. S. In The Final Contest

Farmington lost the last game of the season to Dearborn last Friday on the home floor, by a score of 23-15.

Dearborn had much luck in finding the basket only three field goals were made during the entire game. Nine successful foul shots brought up the Farmington score.

In the first quarter, Farmington was leading 5-1, but at the end of the half Dearborn had climbed to a one point lead at 11-10. In the next period, Dearborn's quintet made only one point and Dearborn led by a large margin, 20-11.

In the last period, Cox made four points to Dearborn's three and the game ended 23-15.

PRIZES ARE AWARDED FOR COSTUMES

Four prizes of one dollar each were given to Mary Ellen Fink, Beulah Gullen, Betty Adams and Mary Ellen Fink Tuesday night for having the cleverest costumes at the carnival.

Mary Ellen, a Sophomore, wore a charming Japanese costume of pink silk. Beulah Adams, a senior, was prettily dressed as a groom in a derby, a chocolate colored shirt, a loose-fitting coat and trousers, a red bandana, a cigar and a black point mustache. Betty Adams, a senior, wore a typical dress of probably the early nineteenth century and a straw sunbonnet. Orman, a first grader, portrayed a spotted cow. The cow was white and had evil looking horns made of cotton and a braided tail.

Mr. Harrison Johnson, Mr. Arthur Lamb, Mr. John Fitzpatrick, Mr. Lawrence Taylor, and Mr. S. D. Harger were the judges.

FRESHMEN GIRLS ARE INTERCLASS CHAMPIONS

The Freshmen girls are inter-class basketball champions as a result of defeating the Seniors 15-2 Tuesday. The Seniors were handicapped without Banfield, who was injured in the game with Ferndale and Lamb was missing from the ranks of the Freshmen due to an injury received at a sliding party.

Graham, Richardson, and Talbot, although they had not played basketball this season helped to make up the Senior team, Graham replacing Banfield. On the Freshmen team Murphy, formerly in running center position, played forward; Shepho, formerly guard, running center, and Storms took Shepho's place in running position.

The Freshmen attained a lead of six points in the first quarter which they lost in the second due to the combined efforts of Zwalen, forward and E. Perry, guard. The Seniors were one point ahead when the half ended, the score being 7-6.

In the next two periods, the Freshmen again triumphed, scoring seven baskets and two foul shots while the Seniors tallied three baskets and one foul shot. The game ended 22-13 in favor of the Freshmen.

MELODRAMA FULL OF THRILLS HAS ALL BREATHLESS

The "Fatal Necklace" presented by the Junior Class Stock Company at the main show of the Carnival Tuesday night was a stirring, heart-rending melodrama in modern setting.

The villain, Jimmy Hogle, and the villainess, Winifred Seelye, made very clever and original characters who were planning to rob the Countess (Helen Westfall) of her diamonds. Helen made a very amusing person who suddenly awoke to find she had been murdered.

The hero and heroine were Mildred Stanley and Philo McCutley. He saved her from the clutches of the villain and helped to prove her identity as that of the Countess' daughter. The villain, unbeknown to himself drank a glass of poisoned wine and died; the villainess, who loved him, shot herself in a bloody scene and saved her lover in the nick of time.

Rhythms Well Received

The rhythms and dramatizations given by grade children as the first half of the main performance were well received by the huge audience packed in the assembly room.

Jimmie Barrons as the Gingerbread Boy and other kindergarten, first and second grade children gave a lively presentation of the famous story of that name.

The third grade children who gave the Swedish Klappans wore black and white costumes.

The fourth grade "Indians" trained by Mrs. Brethour, whooped and pranced as Indians should. "Four negroes," fifth grade pupils, gave a clever "tap" dance with shoes which they wore on their hands.

The Girl Scouts married off a very popular member of their group, Jean Storm, stunningly costumed in which she and her groom, Beulah Gullen, who seemed a bit tipsy and had to have "his" cigarette even at his wedding.

Boxing Matches Held

Three boxing matches were the opening feature of the sport program which followed the main feature. Warren Henderson fought against Wilbur Perry for two rounds, Eddie Mendenhall battled Raymond Fend for two rounds, but the climax was reached when Philo McCutley entered the ring against "Pick" Otis.

The boxing matches were followed by tumbling and the program closed with a ten-minute basketball game between the Grade and High Schools. The result was a tie, 2-2.

Carnival Nets $100

About $100 profit has gone into the Student Council treasury as a result of the Carnival held Tuesday night at the High School. The money will be used to carry on athletic and debating activities.

JOURNALISM STUDENTS ARE 'REAL' REPORTERS

Louise Perry, Jean Storms, Virginia Adams, and Eleanor Perry, members of the advanced Journalism Class, were given a chance to do some real reporting last Monday when the publisher of the Farmington Enterprise asked for volunteers to report the Township primary election, counted at Clarencville and the Bond School.

They telephoned results as soon as obtained and helped to have the special edition of the Enterprise put out a few minutes after the count was finished.

DEMONSTRATES BAKING

A. L. Ross, proprietor of the Farmington Bakery, demonstrated how "Baker Boy" bread is made to the Foods class Tuesday morning.

He also showed how different types of bread and rolls are made such as barbecue buns, hot dog buns, Parker House rolls, custard and jelly rolls.

Mr. Ross explained that it takes longer to make sandwich bread.

The cooks for the Hi-Y breakfast last Tuesday were John Lapham, Kenneth Langbecker, and Harford Utley. Oranges, pancakes, bacon, toast and cocoa were served.

A few of the Hi-Y members will attend the county conference of Hi-Y boys at Royal Oak, March 12.
