

MAN TRIES TO END LIFE BY JUMPING IN FRONT OF CAR

Detroit Recovering After Attempt At Suicide On Grand River Avenue

An attempt at suicide by jumping in front of a street-car on Grand River avenue near Middle Belt road resulted only in painful injuries for Adjutor Paquet, 7616 14th street, Detroit, who is recovering in a Pontiac hospital. Paquet was walking eastward along Grand River Saturday morning about 10 o'clock, when he suddenly jumped in front of a west bound trolley car, in charge of W. H. Whitfield, 15825 Welland, Detroit. Instead of falling under the wheels, his body was thrown back from the car upon the road. He was rendered unconscious and suffered a severe cut on his face.

The man was taken to Pontiac in Heaney's Ambulance.

David Cairns of 226 Lakeway drive and H. R. Walters, 34028 West Oakland road, Farmington, who were driving along Grand River, were witnesses of the attempted suicide.

HINTS FOR HOT WEATHER

With proper care, the human body can stand great extremes of heat and cold. So perfect is the heat regulating apparatus that the normal body temperature is not altered by exposure to the frigid weather of the north pole, nor is it affected by life in the torrid zones of Africa. With certain limits extremes of heat and cold do little or no harm, however intense heat may cause serious trouble unless habits of the winter months are discontinued and living conditions changed.

Don't over-eat. Heavy meals during hot weather are not only unnecessary but are actually harmful. The diet during hot weather may well consist chiefly of fruits, salads and vegetables. Drink plenty of cool water. Cool water is preferable to ice water. There is no satisfactory substitute for water.

Wear loose, light clothing, protect the head from the direct rays of the sun.

Minimize the number of heavy curtains, portieres, pieces of overfurnished furniture and other such things as will retain the heat. Their presence makes the house much hotter than it otherwise would be.

Green vegetation such as trees, grass, shrubbery and flowers help to keep the premises cooler. Short of a pavement there is nothing which will make a yard hotter than the lack of any trees or grass.

Swimming is fine but care should be taken to expose the body for short periods of time only until a protective coat of tan has been developed.

Cool or tepid baths are usually more comforting than ice cold ones.

Remember the babies are far more apt to become ill as a result of hot weather than are older children or adults. Babies improperly cared for during hot weather suffer greatly and often die from diarrhea and gastritis. Every mother should remember at least three things concerning the care of the baby during hot weather:

1. Nurse your baby. Do not wean without consulting your doctor. If bottle fed keep food covered and on ice. Do not give unripe or too ripe fruit to young children, and do not allow them to eat between meals. Children require only three-fourths as much food in hot weather as in cool weather.

2. Water. Give the baby all he will take between feedings. Do not give water for three-quarters of an hour before feeding time. Use cool boiled water.

3. Clothing. In hot weather a diaper and thin shirt are enough. If very hot leave off the shirt. Dress baby according to temperature. Don't use enough clothes to make the baby perspire. Use white clothes. Bathe the baby once a day. In hot weather give

Many Of Art Colony Attend Funeral Here

With several scores of his friends many of them leaders in Detroit's art colony, attending, the remains of Roman Kryzanovsky were laid to rest at Oakwood Cemetery last Friday afternoon. The services were extremely simple. Al Weeks, Detroit theatre critic who was to have spoken on a eulogy, was overcome by emotion and was unable to speak. Oscar Klainer, a friend of many years, read a brief appreciation of the artist's character and career, written by Lee Smits, Detroit newspaper columnist. Kryzanovsky, Smits said, "filled more completely than any other Detroit painter the Latin Quarter ideal of the Bohemian, and at the same time produced work of the highest quality. He was a living challenge to the whole scheme of things, in one of the world's greatest industrial cities. He lived true to an inner light."

Following the reading, a dozen friends bore the casket across the road from the home of the deceased's mother-in-law, Mrs. A. J. Pickett, to Oakwood Cemetery.

Low Bills On Widening

this and other factors showing how favorably the bids compare with those on other jobs. "There are about five miles of paving to be done," said Commissioner Bond. "And the low bid was about $315,000. We usually figure about $40,000 per mile, for a 20-foot pavement. On this job, however, there the two strips most of the way, which brings the cost much below the average when the total of construction is figured. We consider it a very good bid, indeed."

Two sets of bids were taken, one on work with pipe encasement, and one with cement encasement. The bids of the various contractors on each type of work are tabulated in other columns of this issue.

The firm which will do the work is well-equipped to do the work within reasonable time, it is said. Construction must be started in 10 days, according to the specifications and pouring of concrete must be begun not later than September 15.

To Move Tracks
Under the specifications, the car tracks on Grand River will be moved by Eastern Michigan Railways, the contractor to co-operate so that the shifting may be done with greatest facility.

The building of the bridge over River Rouge on Grand River avenue in Farmington is a separate job, contract for which has also been let.

the baby a cool sponge bath two or three times a day. If he has prickly heat include baking soda and corn starch in the bath water (one teaspoon of baking soda and one dessert spoon of corn starch to one quart of water). Clean hands and face help keep the food clean.

5. Sleeping. Have the baby sleep out of doors as much as possible, protecting him from the direct sun and extreme heat. Do not use heavy materials as curtains, etc., to cover or shade the baby—they exclude air. Protect him from flies by covering the carriage or crib with white mosquito netting. Don't pile on extra covers unless the weather turns cold—the baby's covers should be no warmer than yours.

Summer Diarrhea. At first symptoms of diarrhea stop all feeding and call your doctor. Give as much boiled water as baby will take, offering water every 15 to 30 minutes. A baby loses water very rapidly with a diarrhea and needs immense quantities to replace this loss. Consult your doctor immediately. If you get in touch with him early he can easily check a simple diarrhea. Later he may be able to do but little. Castor oil may be given once in the earliest stages. Later it may be dangerous.

4. Bathing. Bathe the baby once a day. In hot weather give
