END BEAVER SEASON JAN. 1

The Conservation Commission at its November meeting ordered the beaver season closed after January 1. If this action had not been taken the season would have automatically opened with the new year, as the last closing order dated 1925 would have terminated on that date. There has been no open season on beaver in Michigan since 1920.

New
Lamps for Old

Large Sizes for Small, or Small Sizes for Large

NOT all lamp bulbs have a renewal value, nor are all lamps of the same efficiency. Do not be deceived by so-called "low-priced" imported lamp bulbs. In the long run, they are costly. They consume much more current for the amount of light given. They cannot be renewed, and for purposes of exchange are worthless.

Only Mazda lamps are handled by The Detroit Edison Company. They are available in fourteen types, and have high illuminating power for low current consumption. Mazda lamps are modern, high-efficiency bulbs, constantly improved by the Mazda research staff. They are renewable without charge in all the ordinary residence and commercial sizes. The Detroit Edison Company exchanges, without charge, new lamps for burnt-out or blackened lamps, and larger size lamps for small ones, or vice versa.
