

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know
How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.: "I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I must die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."

"—Mrs. BERTHA MUFF, 608 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ailments known of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

LIVE STOCK

GROUND GRAIN IS FAVORED

Animals Seldom Masticate Food Thoroughly as Should Be When Fed in Natural State.

(By M. COVERDELL.)

Where stock eat the grain in its natural and unbroken state, it is very seldom masticated as thoroughly as it should be. Most animals are naturally gluttonous, and in their haste to consume grain they swallow much of it without crushing or grinding it.

This yields a detrimental effect on the stock that is twofold. The grain in this solid condition cannot impart proper nourishment to the animals and the digestive and assimilative organs will be overtaxed and impaired in their efforts to convert this coarse feed into substance that will build up the tissues of the body.

Aside from these two drawbacks we must consider that unground feed causes a waste by passing whole and practically unchanged through the animal; or, if the stock do eat an amount large enough for the natural juices that should have been brought down by thorough mastication.

On the other hand, where the grain is ground before feeding, it is fine and dry, adhering to the animal's mouth when it takes a bite. This has to chew before it can swallow. This avoids the drawback above mentioned, and by the grain being well ground it is much easier to digest. In fact, its pulverized condition renders it immediately available for the assimilative organs to convert into nourishment—bone and muscle—via out overtaxing any of the organs of these two systems and at the same time it will render less of this ground feed necessary to keep the animal in prime shape.

RINGING HOGS IS MADE EASY

Device Shown in Illustration and Described in Detail Has Proven Quite Advantageous.

This is the device I use in ringing or snoutting hogs, and would not do without it. With a boy's help one man can ring as many hogs with this device as two men without it, and it is much easier. Make a strong hog crate and in one end nail a board shaped like A in the drawing. Bore four holes in crosspieces C and D to adjust the rope to the size of hogs. Writes A. G. Stigmund of Wetmore, Kan., in the Farmers' Mail and Breeze. Out of a white elm board or other stout wood, shape a lever like B and bolt to D at the bottom. A pin holds the lever in place at the top. The crate is left open at the other end.

Hog-Ringing Rate.

Have the boy run the hog into the crate and when his head is into the yoke bring over the lever just in front of his shoulders. He will then stay until you turn him loose.

Sheeling the Colt.

The first sheeling of a colt is the most important, not only in the fit of the shoes, but also in seeing that the colt is not badly scared by the form, the unusual handling and new sounds. Horses man to shoe are generally the result of improper handling at early sheelings.

ARRANGING GATES FOR PENS

Various Entrances May Be Conveniently Fixed Without Much Trouble—Method Shown.

(By J. O. GOODWIN.)

Entrances to lanes, sheds, barn buildings and all other places where two or more entrances are desired may be conveniently arranged with little trouble. As shown in the illustration, the two gates enclose three entrances.

To open the center entrance the gates are separated—one pushed to the right and one to the left—which makes the opening nine feet wide.

To open the entrance to the right-hand gate the gates are pushed to the right.

The entrance to each of the side pens is only five feet, the rest of the entrance being blanked up.

This arrangement is particularly convenient for buildings to be arranged that the center or driveway is to be open, and the sheds on each side are wanted with doorways to admit stock, etc.

In the latter case the doors may be made solid, so as to exclude rain, snow, and cold winds.

Fig. 1, A, are pieces set in between the gates and extending six inches. These extensions, one being on each gate, enter the open space on the opposite gate, thus holding the gates firm in place.

D in Fig. 2 shows the method of latching the gates together.

This latch is fastened between the bottoms of the gates and catches automatically when the gates are closed.

To uncatch, press down on the catch at D.

In Fig. 2, C is the part plank up. B shows the position of notched pieces, a side view of which is shown in Fig. 3.

The notches in this piece are a little larger than the slats of the gates.

These notches rest over the gate slats and are fastened to the post directly behind the pen.

These notched pieces are strengthened and held in place by an iron rod three-quarters of an inch in diameter and arranged as shown in Fig. 3.

The hangers for the rollers should be fastened to the wall perfectly level, so that the slats of the gates will pass backward and forward through the notches that hold the gate in position.

ALFALFA IN THE HOG RATION

Nothing of More Importance Than Feeding at Least Good—Excellent for All Live Stock.

While the hog is a debt payer, it is necessary for the breeder, farmer or feeder to manage so as to make the greatest amount of money at the least cost in the quickest time, says the American Swineherd. To do this the use is nothing of more importance than feeding alfalfa.

The Illinois Farmer's Institute states that alfalfa is the most important single product of the soil, a product that has been neglected to the detriment of every community.

Alfalfa as a storage plant for general use has no equal. It is easily grown, it is hardy under trying circumstances, and while it is an excellent food for all kinds of stock, and especially the hog, it at the same time through natural processes improves the soil by drawing from the atmosphere nitrogen.

Alfalfa is a good feed for hogs, and worked most successfully by the use of swine feeding.

LIVE STOCK NOTES

Be careful about feeding the horse new oats at first. The new should be fed but little immediately after harvesting.

Raise hogs, but remember you must raise forage crops for them. The most practical time for weaning is when about five months old.

Sweet corn fed to the dairy stock or the growing pigs in the green state, is profitable.

The only remedy for the cattle shortage is for the country to go back to cattle breeding.

The box stall is a better place for horses that require rest on account of lameness than a grass field.

The cheapest method of producing meat of any sort in almost every case is by keeping the animals on pasture.
