If the tree has been praned so that the top, is much higher than this, it is usually best to cut the entire for port about three feet from the ground and depend upon forming the top from limbs which come out below this point. Feich trees can stand more severe pruning than either cherry or apple. Feach trees should generally pround, and if there are any branches below that point they should be cut back to the first or second bud, Cherries or plums need practically no pruning 2-cept to cut the branches of a foot or so from the trunk.

VINE CUTTINGS FOR SPRING

Should Be Kept Moist Until Rooted, and Then Given Frequent Culti-vation—Hoe Often. Currant and grape cuttings, planted

Currant and grape cuttings, planted in beds in early spring, are mulched in late summer, preferably with saw, dust or tan bark, and kept moist until the cuttings are rooted. Later on the propagating bed is given frequent and shallow cultivation. Heading is frequently—done between the rows of plants, which are 18 inches apart. This keeps fresh soil around them, keeps down the weeds and water is given when the soil is very dry. A propagating bed for strawberry plants also needs some attention. The weeds must be kept out. It is best to cut off the later tuniers, as the early ones make the strongest plants.
