CHURCHES USE LIGHT TO BEAUTIFY INTERIORS

That more and more churches are using light, not only for purposes of illumination but also to accentuate the architectural beauty of interiors, is the interesting statement revealed in a letter sent to local churches on this subject. The effect created by soft light on the altar, memorial windows, and chancel attractively emphasizes the inherent beauty of the church edifice.

Numerous changes in Detroit have adopted the new lighting, and the trend is gaining increasing acceptance. Among these are the Cass Avenue M. E. Church, St. Mary's Catholic Church, and the North-Woodward Congregational Church. Local churches are considering the addition of improved lighting. This illuminating engineering advice is offered by The Detroit Edison Company as part of its service.

ADVISES RETAIL BUYING OF GOODS BY TELEPHONE

In a discussion of retail salesmanship over the radio, Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, said that while there is a tendency in some quarters to consider the slogan "cash and carry" as a money saving principle, the benefits of the telephone and delivery system should not be overlooked.

"The telephone and delivery system," he said, "saves the time of thousands of customers, obviates the necessity of going to the store, and enables the clerk to take a operate effectively. A clerk with a dozen orders received over the telephone can stand in front of the canned pens and take down a dozen or more items all at the same time, instead of making a dozen separate trips at the behest of individual customers standing in front of the counter. Such efficiency in assembling orders is one of the very effective means of cutting down the cost of making individual transactions."

Near But Far
Oscar and Guy Michaels, brothers, lost trace of each other 31 years ago. Guy looked up his name in the new phone book at Pontiac, called the other the day, and found O. B. Michaels listed under his own name. He phoned, and found the other to be his brother. Stranger yet, the lost one had lived within five blocks for two years; yet they had never met.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Howard moved some of their furniture to their new house, Monday.

SPARROWS TAKE FEED INTENDED FOR OTHERS

House sparrows in flocks of hundreds take much of the grain placed at feeding stations for pheasants and quail and add greatly to the expense of such stations. In answer to numerous inquiries, the Game Division of the Department of Conservation says that unfortunately the widely used funnel trap for catching small birds is seldom effective against the crafty house sparrow; but that one of the easiest ways to get rid of them is to exterminate the flock with a charge of fine shot, when gathered at the feed.

Poison is sometimes used but the risk to other birds and to human beings is so great that poisoning is recommended by the Department only where guns and traps have failed.
