A norelly in the way of maps has fust been issued by the German imperial postoffice, which has compiled, a chart showing, the principal wireless telegraph stations in the world. The object is to advertise the facilities now, afforded in Germany for "drahtlose" telegraphy. German stations are, of course, given special prominence on the map, and in this connection it is interesting to note that the station at Neuen is claimed to be the most powerful in existence, its range being 2.100 miles. This is two hundred miles more than that of Elifel tower.
