VENISON, SEIZED FROM HUNTERS, GIVEN CHARITY

Lansing.—Carcasses of 79 deer, 1 moose and sixteen pieces of venison ranging in weight from 10 to 100 pounds, were known to have been distributed to charitable institutions by conservation officers during the past deer season. Much more was distributed locally without being recorded in the Lansing office of the Conservation Department.

Among the institutions which benefited were orphanages, county farms, state hospitals, the Salvation Army, and others.

The majority of the venison sent to such institutions was confiscated from conservation law violators. Forty-two does, 8 bucks, 27 fawns, and 1 cow moose were among the carcasses on the confiscated list.
