Rival Leader Writes Praise of F. H. S. Band

Disciplined, well-mannered, a credit to any community. I also admire their pluck in coming. Three other well established bands from cities of from 1500 to 40,000 were invited but the first question these bands asked was whether or not the Northville Band was in the fray. I was glad to see the medals go to Farmington! As I told the judges at the debate, you have a great future with these boys and girls.

Whether or not we will enter any more competition I don't know. We have done very well, won three trophies, but its been hard work, and I sometimes think whether its worth the worry and hustle or not. Moreover we have all we can handle in Northville. Wishing Mr. Eaton and his band did type of boys and girls every success, and hope to meet them again at the Northville fair.

Yours sincerely,
Edwin Head, Director
Northville School Community Band and Detroit All-City Junior and Elementary Bands.

What a Man Owes to His Mother . . .

NOBODY has ever succeeded in calculating precisely what a man owes to his mother—for the simple reason that it is beyond mere calculation. . . . That we now have a day set aside and devoted to the thought of mothers, it is a triumphant fact in the face of times which move so fast that some, perhaps, have not the time to remember. . . . But the day has not arrived when Mothers can be forgotten by the mass of mankind. No man, given a conscience, can forget this debt which, after all, he can never repay.
