EDGEWATER PARK DRAWS CROWDS BY ADVERTISING
 That more than 30,000 people entered the gates of Edgewater Park on July 4th is ample evidence of the pulling power of advertising placed in community newspapers.
 Practically all of Edgewater Park's newspaper advertising appropriation is spent with community newspapers. Forty weekly and foreign language newspapers carried the message of fun, entertainment and fireworks at Edgewater Park on July 4th.

In addition to the 30,000 enjoying wholesome amusement in this beautiful pleasure capitol of Northwest Detroit, it is estimated that fully 20,000 people parked outside Edgewater Park's gates viewed the spectacular display of fireworks.
 Edgewater Park's management is thoroughly sold on the value of community newspapers as advertising media and backs its judgement by placing orders for thousands of inches of display advertising space each season.
